WELFARE BOARD SEEKING HOSPITAL TO EASE CROWDING

Fulton County Commission Gets Details of Proposed Convalescent Home To House 250 Patients, to Cost $178,000.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO STUDY PROJECT

Frank Neely Resignation From Welfare Board Is Accepted 'With Regret'; Baird Takes His Place.

A new convalescent home for county tubercular and cancer patients, to cost $178,000, was proposed by the Fulton County Commission yesterday by W. Eugene Harrington, chairman of the Fulton County Welfare Board.

The county will be required to furnish approximately $50,000. The remainder, amounting to approximately $128,000, will be granted by WPA, according to the announcement of Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator.

The proposal was coincident with the resignation of Frank Neely, manager of Rich's, Inc., as a member of the welfare board.

Neely's resignation was accepted "with regret" by the county commission and T. B. Baird, well-known Atlanta civic worker, was named in his place.

250-Bed Home Planned.

Harrington told the county board that 250 beds would be contained in the convalescent home, which would be located at the site of the old River prison camp.

One hundred beds would be used for tubercular patients and 150 for patients suffering from cancer and other diseases.

The new home would be operated under the direction of Grady hospital, of which J. B. Franklin is superintendent, and student nurses and internes would compose the staff.

The medical staff of Grady would also be at its disposal.

Dr. Charles K. Adams, chairman of the county commission; Commissioner George F. Longino and Commissioner J. A. Ragsdale were appointed to confer with Harrington and members of the welfare board and with a special committee named by city council. A meeting of these committees will be called next week.

Better Care, Less Cost.

Harrington said overcrowded conditions at Battle Hill sanitarium would be relieved and that convalescent patients would be better cared for.

Missing 4 Days, Pilot, 5 Others Return Safely

DAWSON, Y. T., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Pacific Alaska Airways radio reported tonight that Jack Herman, missing pilot and his five plane passengers walked into Eagle, Alaska, late today. They had been missing since Saturday.

The radio message was received via Whitehorse. It gave no details, but there were unconfirmed reports that the plane sat down on a Yukon river sandbar near Eagle, en route between there and Fairbanks, Alaska. Eagle is ten miles south of the Alaska-Canadian boundary.

Billy Sunday, 72, Noted Evangelist, Dies of Angina Pectoris in Chicago

Former Professional Baseball Player was Born in Nevada, Iowa.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday, 72, well-known evangelist, died suddenly tonight of angina pectoris at the home of a brother-in-law here.

His moans, after he had gone upstairs, attracted members of the household who summoned medical aid immediately. The noted evangelist had been an invalid for some time.

He had suffered a mild attack about 2 p. m. today.

Sunday was born in Ames, Iowa, November 19, 1863. He was graduated from a high school in Nevada, Iowa, studied at Northwestern University in suburban Evanston, Illinois, and became a well-known professional baseball player.

Between 1883 and 1890 he played with Chicago, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia in the National league as an outfielder.

Upon his retirement from professional baseball, Sunday became interested in religious work and in 1891 was appointed an assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association in Chicago.

Sunday's wife, Helen, said that at 2 a. m. today the evangelist complained of pains in his arms, saying: "Mother, that feels like angina. It hurts very much."

Returns to Sleep.

Mrs. Sunday gave him some medicine and he returned to sleep, she said. He was up and dressed from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m. today, when he retired and she carried up lunch for him.

The pains returned at 5:30 p. m., and he died.

STORM EXPECTED TO RETURN TODAY

Hurricane Will Probably Strike Between Apalachicola, Mississippi.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Weather observers warned tonight that a tropical storm, moving through the Gulf of Mexico after lashing a fierce blow at southern Florida, probably will turn inland again tomorrow.

An advisory issued at New Orleans tonight said its center probably will strike somewhere between the mouth of the Mississippi river and Apalachicola, Fla. There was no indication of what time tomorrow the blow might be expected.

The advisory placed the center tonight about 150 miles southeast of Port Eads, La., and said the storm was moving northwest. It added, however, that the future direction, while still uncertain, probably will be northward, taking it into the Gulf coast.

The bureau said the storm is small, and dangerous winds therefore limited to a small area. Observers here said it was moving northward. It added, however, that the future direction, while still uncertain, probably will be northward, taking it into the Gulf coast.

Eight persons lay dead in the almost unprecedented path of the freak cyclone, five of them in the Miami area.

Spread of Strike Against WPA Seen

Labor Leaders Expect Other Cities To Follow Action Taken in Atlanta.

Spread of Atlanta's threatened WPA strike to other of the larger cities in the state was forecast by leaders of the Atlanta Federation of Trades yesterday as they wired their official ultimatum to WPA officials in Washington, warning that unless some compromise is reached on pay issues by next Tuesday, a strike is certain.

While Washington unofficially dumped the whole crisis back into the lap of Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, for local adjustment, Miss Shepperson barricaded herself in her office behind double-locked doors and met all questions with firm responses.

"I have nothing to say," she said.

Message Sent Baker.

Labor leaders for the first time in several weeks studiously ignored Miss Shepperson all day, while they drafted and sent this message to Jacob K. Baker, of the FERA in Washington, administrative assistant to WPA.

"We are not dealing with labor issues while Mr. Hopkins is temporarily absent from Washington. Your state officials take position that Stouffer admitted he was preparing to represent Vanderbilt in a divorce, and further quoted the lawyer as saying: 'I have nothing to say except I will represent Mr. Vanderbilt in this divorce case.'"

LONGINO DEPRIVED OF OFFICIAL AUTO BY COUNTY BOARD

New Squabbles Break Up Commissioners as Jury Presentments Are Given Consideration of Group.

Fulton county commissioners were as widely split as ever last night after a hectic session during which the September-October grand jury presentments were considered and the county-owned car used by Commissioner George F. Longino as chairman of the finance committee was ordered turned over to the police department.

The meeting, which began yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and ended at 7 o'clock last night, concluded with a parting shot by Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, leader of the majority faction, that "he was tired of taking punches and from now on would give punch for punch."

His remark was directed at Longino, with whom he engaged in a bitter argument as to whether the minority leader had ever charged that Johnson had hired Charles H. Collins under an assumed name.

Johnson earlier introduced a resolution which read in effect, "Whereas the September-October grand jury recommended that county-owned cars, other than those used by law enforcement officers and the superintendent and chairman of the public works, be sold, that the automobile of Longino be turned over to the police department for its use."

Commissioner Longino then urged

TRUST COMPANY WILL CASH SCRIP

Bank Agrees To Absorb City Payroll Without Discount for 2 Months.

The Trust Company of Georgia, of which Thomas K. Glenn is president, yesterday agreed to absorb the $500,000 in scrip which the city will issue for November and December to 4,250 employees on monthly and semi-monthly pay rolls of the municipality.

Announcement of consummation of the negotiations, which have been under way for several days, was made late yesterday by Mayor Key, Councilman Aubrey Milam, chairman of council's finance and M. Graham Vest, city comptroller.

For the first time since the city was forced to issue scrip to meet pay roll obligations of the latter part of the year, the banks have entered the picture and decided that Atlanta scrip is as good as deposits and have agreed to absorb it.

No Discount.

The deal means that employees will take their scrip directly to the Trust Company of Georgia and it will be cashed just as if it were a pay roll check. No discount will be accepted by the bank, it was said.

At the same time, it also decided yesterday that a full December pay roll will be met on December 20, thus insuring employees their money in time for Christmas shopping.

Key praised Milam and Vest, who were leaders in the negotiations. In late years the Coca-Cola Company has absorbed the scrip and previous to that Atlanta merchants came to the rescue of employees.

"This fine attitude of the Trust Company of Georgia means employees of next year's presidential contest will suffer no inconvenience in the matter of meeting their obligations or in having ready cash with which to make purchases," Milam said. "It also means that thousands of dollars will be turned loose to stimulate holiday trade."

Ends Apprehension.

"I am confident employees are grateful for the assurance they will get pay roll money on time. Key said. "The agreement eliminates any apprehension which may have been in the mind of those who are in the city's employ."

At the same time, Key announced Milam will head the 1936 finance committee of city council.

"He has done a good job with what he had to do with, and he deserves the commendation and recognition of the administration," Key said.

The mayor also indicated he is giving more than perfunctory consideration to the suggestion.

Jaycee Officials Will Take Part In Atlanta-Savannah Motorcade

Eight officials and leaders of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, in two cars, will ride in the November 15 motorcade from Atlanta to Savannah by way of McDonough, Macon and Dublin, the director of the motorcade was informed yesterday.

"We wish to take this opportunity of congratulating the Atlanta Constitution on its forward step in sponsoring this motorcade. We offer our services to you and if in any capacity we can serve you, please do not hesitate to call upon us," wrote George B. Kany, secretary of the Jaycee organization.

Jaycees who will be in the two cars include Everett G. Jackson, president; Allen L. Barr, executive vice president; Jake Crouch, vice president, and

CHANDLER VICTOR, REPEAL IS AHEAD IN KENTUCKY VOTE

True Significance of Ballot Results in East Is Disputed Among National Party Leaders.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A. B. (Happy) Chandler, democrat, who had the support of President Roosevelt, piled up an apparently insurmountable lead tonight over Judge King Swope, republican, in their race for governor of Kentucky.

Without about one-fourth of the record-breaking vote cast in yesterday's general election tabulated, Chandler, loud in his praise of the New Deal, increased his lead to 33,889 over Swope, who was silent about national issues and attacked the democratic state administration.

Returns from 1,272 of Kentucky's 4,219 precincts, representing all but four of the 120 counties, gave Chandler 184,575 and Swope 147,376. It appeared that only a sudden reversal in trend could change the final outcome.

The referendum on repeal of the state prohibition amendment gave republicans an advance of 18,137 over democrats. The vote, with 980 precincts tabulated, was 98,947 in favor of repeal of constitutional prohibition and 80,810 against.

Kentuckians wrote into their constitution authority for the legislature to enact old age pensions. The vote on the amendment, advocated to help further the New Deal's social security program, was 150,816 in favor and 80,810 against.

STOCK LIST SOARS IN HEAVY TRADING

Many Gains of $1 to $5 Are Registered; Volume Hits 3,077,740 Shares.

By VICTOR EURANK.

Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A buying torrent swept stock market prices upward today at a speed not attained by the list in more than a year.

In the boom market for favorite equities, numerous gains of $1 to about $5 a share were recorded. During the first and last hours of trading the ticker tape dropped 2 minutes behind floor transactions as minutes of several thousand shares changed hands.

The Associated Press averaged 60 selected stocks advanced 7-10 of a point to 53.9, a new peak for this composite since September 12, 1931. The turnover of 3,077,740 shares was the largest since July 26, last year.

Traders came back from their election holiday with their pockets crammed with purchasing orders. The usual instructions were to "buy at the market" and leading issues sprang at the sound of the opening gong on the New York exchange.

There were intervals of profit-taking, when the activity slowed, but the fast finish found the majority of stocks not far from their best levels of the session.

Wall Street analysts differed in their opinions as to the whys and wherefores of the forward swing. Some thought the revival of bullish sentiment might have been predicated on the results of yesterday's voting.

Others, however, were not in agreement with this thinking. These felt there had been no real test of the administration's strength. It was recalled that New York is normally a republican state.

Among the more conspicuous advances were those of General Motors, up $3.87 to $58.25; DuPont, up $4.62 to $141.50; Chrysler, up $1.25 to $86.75; Columbia Gas, up $3.50 to $100.50; Coca-Cola, up $5 to $280; Air Reduction, up $4.87 to $172.87; Bethlehem Steel, up $2.75 to $43.50; Caterpillar Tractor, up $2.62 to $59.62; United States Steel, up $1.25 to $48; New York Central, up $1.12 to $35; Illinois Central, up $1.12 to $16.12; Youngstown Sheet & Tube, up $2.25 to $33.87; Union Carbide, up $1 to $71.75; and Seaboard Oil, up $1.62 to $32.62.

Nancy Carroll, Editor Divorced Second Time

CARSON CITY, Nev., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Nancy Carroll, red-haired film actress, and Bolton Malloy, former editor of the Carson City "Life," were divorced for a second time in district court here today.

Disregarding the Mexican divorce won a few months ago by the already remarried Malloy, Miss Carroll appeared before District Judge Clark J. Guild to obtain a Nevada decree of her own on grounds of non-support and cruelty.

Malloy was not represented. Malloy married 14-year-old Carlotta Lobato in Mexico last August after obtaining a Mexican divorce from the film star.

Wayne T. Wilson, attorney for Miss Carroll, said his client had "no immediate plans for a remarriage."

The actress was married to Malloy in January, 1931.

Hitler Agrees Not to Supply Duce With Materials To Prosecute War

Reich Will Limit Exports to Normal Commercial Trade.

GENEVA, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Germany told the League of Nations tonight she will permit no war profiteering whatsoever in the reich.

An official League communique disclosed Adolf Hitler's decision to stamp out all speculation in products which Germany is convinced are destined for either Italy or Ethiopia.

League officials and many delegates saw in the reich's action a serious blow to Mussolini. They interpreted it as meaning the non-member reich will do nothing or permit nothing to balk Geneva's efforts to bring quick termination of the African war.

The communique said the committee of 18, through the League secretariat, had been informed Germany has learned certain persons were purchasing goods in the reich with the probable intention of selling them to belligerents at a large profit.

"The government therefore," said the communique, "proposes shortly to issue a decree to render such speculation impossible."

League officials believed the move would seriously embarrass Il Duce because they have felt the merchandise purchased in Germany was intended primarily for Italy, presumably to transit across Austria.

They saw in Germany's attitude a certain similarity with that of the United States, which officially has

DEMOCRATS CLAIM VICTORY AT POLLS

Republican Opponents Cast Most Tallies in F. D. R.'s Home State.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Reduced to its last analysis the victory which republicans are so vociferously claiming from yesterday's elections consists in the re-election of a republican mayor in Philadelphia, a city which, with one exception, has not gone democratic in 75 years, and the recapture of control of the New York legislature, although democratic candidates polled upwards of 500,000 more votes in the state than republicans.

The Philadelphia election may be treated as a republican victory only in the sense that G. O. P. leaders fully expected to lose the majority race. Even so, it is tempered by the fact the republican candidate, S. Davis Wilson, himself a former democrat, won by the slimmest kind of a margin.

Ships released from transport duty and returned to passenger service are the Viminale, Conte Biancamano, Dalmazia, Saturnia, Aventino, Celio and Romolo.

Well informed sources said they expected shortly the withdrawal of part of the British fleet from the Mediterranean by a decision of the conference yesterday between Il Duce and Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador.

Sir Eric and the French ambassador, Count Charles de La Rocque, were expected to discuss the subject was not disclosed, but in some political circles belief was expressed that the two diplomats might call upon Il Duce.

A Paris dispatch said diplomatic circles heard a report the British will

Two Given 99 Years In Fire Death of 10

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Frank Vitale, a grocer, and Joseph Di Chiaro, were convicted today of murder by reason of a criminal court jury which decreed they must each serve 99 years and one day in the penitentiary.

The verdict was returned shortly before 5 p. m. (C. S. T.) after the jury retired at 12:54 p. m. (C. S. T.).

The men were accused of engineering an incendiary fire in Vitale's store which snuffed out 10 lives on September 23.

Joseph Vitale, nephew of the grocer and accused of having been the go-between in the case, was found guilty yesterday and was sentenced to 100 years imprisonment.

Killing of Ten Italians and Imprisonment of Four by Tribal Warrior Defenders Is Reported in Selassie's Capital.

FASCIST FLAG SEEN IN OBJECTIVE CITY

Four Columns Plan To Resume Push Today in View of Possibility of Foe Hampering Lines.

By ANDRUE BERDING.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.)

AT THE FRONT WITH THE NORTHERN ITALIAN ARMIES, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Natives told this correspondent today that Ethiopian warriors "in as great a number they cannot be counted" are gathering at Amba Alaji for a pitched battle with the advancing Italians.

These informants said the huge Ethiopian army was assembling at the two points under Ras Kassa, powerful chieftain, and Ras Mulugheta, Ethiopia's minister of war.

Amba Alaji is roughly 40 miles south of Makale, the present object of a great Italian drive.

The triumphal entry into Makale of an advance patrol from the forces of Ras Gugsa, traitorous son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie, was reported by scouts today to headquarters of an invading Italian army eager to come to grips with their Ethiopian foes.

While blackbirds of the main columns advancing on Makale kicked dried mud from their hooved boots and chafed at the halt enforced by heavy rains, Gugsa's advance men hurried into the objective city under cover of darkness last night and were that the commission go further and dispose of the cars of other county employees as recommended. No action was taken then but Johnson asked for an opinion from the county attorney as to who are law enforcement officers. He also introduced a resolution, which passed, delegating each committee chairman to allocate gas and oil and to report any irregularity in its distribution.

The September grand jury presentations and the dissenting report of Foreman Walter S. Pharr was ordered put on the minutes of the county commission. The commissioners read the presentations paragraph by paragraph and then voted to adopt a number of the recommendations concerning operation of county affairs.

However, when the subject of the recommendation that the commissioners co-operate or "relinquish their office" came up, a wrangle developed. Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman, moved that the county board offer co-operation with every grand jury every term and to appear before the grand jury in a body always, if possible.

Dr. Adams' motion was adopted. This was the first time since the grand jury was organized that the county board has been so widely and deeply split as it ever was.

Despite this, the commissioners were at wide variance a moment later over the co-operation or resignation recommendation and the session ended with the board as widely and deeply split as it ever was.

Special Session Today.
The commissioners are to meet in special session today at 10 o'clock to consider a request from the city to aid in the gigantic sewer program now under way.

The county will be asked this morning by W. A. Haxell, executive director of construction of the city, acting on the order of city council, to furnish $539,000 as its share of the $6,000,000 sewer project. The city will supply $1,000,000 and the WPA and FERA are to furnish approximately $4,500,000. The county's help will be necessary before the construction can begin, Haxell said.

Mr. Wells, superintendent of county schools, appeared before the board yesterday to request an additional $100,000 appropriation for 1935-36. He said the school department revenue has decreased about that amount during the last four years while the number of teachers has increased from 412 to 605.

Selassie Appeals to America To Aid League in Sanctions Against Italy

Emperor of African Empire Opposes Methods of Sword and Force as Those of Ancient Ignorance; Lion of Judah Pleads for Peace Among Nations

The following appeal to the American people from Emperor Haile Selassie, of Ethiopia, to co-operate in League sanctions against Italy is condensed from a broadcast from Addis Ababa to New York and relayed over the Columbia Broadcasting System:

By Emperor Haile Selassie.
ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 6.—(UP)—This is the first opportunity I have had, since war was thrust upon the Ethiopian people, to address the people of my strong, well-loved neighbor America. My message is neither long nor difficult to understand. I know there is no necessity for me to review the tragic circumstances which have forced our peaceful and independent nation of Ethiopia into a war of self-preservation—a war which all the world must know is not desired by either the Ethiopian people or myself. The American press, appreciated for its sympathetic interest, has carried to every American the incontrovertible fact that the war is not of our making and that the Italians are the aggressors.

Nor was it necessary to leave this duty to individuals. The League of Nations solemnly declared this was the case and pronounced the international form of punishment known as League sanctions against Italy. The League of Nations realized this and have risen in peaceful but mighty strength against Italy.

As America are not members of the League, your government is without obligation to the League covenant. I have no quarrel with this. The League of Nations is a body of peoples is not to be lightly criticized from without. But the time has come, the opportunity is here for you to desire peace to help League efforts toward conciliation. Not because it is the League—not because it is my nation needing strength and aid—but because I believe there is no controversy our cause is the cause of humanity, of justice and of peace on earth.

I ask no one to take the sword against Italy. Methods of the sword and of force are methods of ancient ignorance. People of the world today are capable and united and thoughtful action through peaceful channels. I give thanks to God that the people of the world are capable of this. Nations realized this and have risen in peaceful but mighty strength against Italy.

INDICTMENT RETURNED IN ALABAMA MINE WAR

Judge Refuses To Reveal
Name or Charge Contained in True Bill.

PELL CITY, Ala., Nov. 6.—(AP)—One indictment was returned today by the St. Clair county grand jury which investigated the slaying of Virgil Thomas, union miner, in a conflict between union and non-union forces near White's Chapel 10 days ago.

Judge Alto V. Lee declined to make public the name of the person indicted, or to name the charge made against him.

Attorney-General Albert A. Carmichael, who directed the grand jury investigation of the slaying, said "the surface has only been scratched."

"Law enforcement in St. Clair county is at a very low ebb," Carmichael said. "I will not know whether there will be another grand jury investigation of this case until I have conferred with Governor Graves."

The report said the grand jury had examined 21 witnesses and returned one true bill.

Amelia Earhart Attacks Barriers Against Women as Transport Pilots

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart complained today that the nation's first woman transport pilot in commercial aviation "had to resign because" the handicap of her sex.

The woman who flew two oceans cited the case of Miss Helen Richey, former pilot for Central Air Lines, as an example of barriers facing women in aviation.

Suggesting a fund to "break down the barriers and help women to gain their proper place in aviation," Miss Earhart said:

"One girl did succeed in landing a job recently as co-pilot on one of the mail lines. What happened?"

"Well, the pilots' union refused to take her in, not because of lack of ability (all of her co-workers admitted she was a K. as to flying) but because she was a female."

"The result of this action was that the Department of Commerce refused to let her fly passengers in bad weather, so the poor girl could not do her part at all, and had to resign."

Miss Earhart's statement was made public by the Pan-Pacific Press Bureau. It was in response to a letter from the women of Hawaii, requesting her advice on what to do with a surplus of funds collected to set up a marker on the Oahu tableland from which Miss Earhart took off on her recent Pacific flight.

Air-licensing officials of the Department of Commerce said they didn't even know Miss Richey had resigned. The only suggestion they had made about her, they said, was that in case of very rough weather, from the standpoint of sheer manual labor required to handle a tri-motor ship, she be relieved of making the run.

"That suggestion was made informally at the time when her qualifications were found adequate, and was agreed to," said Fred Neely, chief of the aeronautical information section.

"The only thought was that it was too much of a physical job in tough weather, just as, for instance, a woman would be less likely to be set at driving a truck than to be put behind the steering wheel of a car."

Some friends of Miss Richey said the Airline Pilots' Association had made things so uncomfortable for her that she resigned and returned to her home at McKeesport, Pa.

Miss Earhart named as general obstacles to women flyers: "In learning to fly they are handicapped by traditional methods of teaching set up for men and their background of experience. Comparatively fewer jobs are available to them by which they can earn their way through school. The tradition of physical inferiority," and she added:

"I can't tell how many physicians utter the most solemn pronouncement about women's glands, when there is not an iota of research to support their dicta."

MODEL AIRPLANES Scores Entered in Contest Shown at Davison's

The boys of Atlanta have shown keen interest in the model airplane contest sponsored by Davison-Paxon in co-operation with the Gulf Refining Company and the Eastern Air Lines, officials of the store announced yesterday.

Scores of planes have already been submitted and will be on display the rest of this week in the toy department. Major Al Williams, who is to judge the contest, will fly to Atlanta Monday morning, weather permitting, and will be in the store from 11 to 12 o'clock Monday to autograph the planes.

Any boy or girl under 18 years of age may enter a model plane in this contest. It need not fly, but will be judged for accuracy of detail and scale. The first prize will be a round trip for the winner and a parent to any point on the Eastern Air Line route, Washington, New York, Chicago, New Orleans, Miami or any intermediate point. All planes must be submitted before noon Saturday. All who contemplate entering are urged to get their planes in at once, as they will be displayed until the contest is judged on Monday.

other sections of the state whose leaders have sent word they are coming to take part in the celebration.

The motorcade will signalize completion of the new all-paved route from Atlanta to Savannah, the shortest hard-surfaced artery between the state's two largest cities. It is only 250 miles in all.

The motorcade is sponsored by The Constitution, the Savannah Morning News and the Macon Telegraph, and plans arranged promise one of the most delightful events of its kind in the history of the state.

Laurens County Barbecue.

The city of Dublin will provide food and entertainment for the midday stop, with one of Laurens county's far-famed barbecues as the principal item, with all the accessories that tradition has given a Georgia 'cue, and with band music and other events for the delegation of the 'cadets.

Arriving in Savannah early in the evening, the motorcade party will be guests at a buffet supper at the Hotel DeSoto, headquarters there. Friday evening there will be a grand ball, night club entertainment, street dances and band concerts as features of the program and on Saturday a sight-seeing tour will wind up at the Country Club, where oyster roast, shore dinner and a boxing program will be provided. There will be more dancing and cabaret amusements Saturday night.

Persons planning to go on the motorcade should send in their applications early, to avoid disappointment in the event the last-minute rush makes it necessary to limit the number of cars in line. Application blanks may be secured either at motorcade headquarters in The Constitution building, at the Atlanta Motor Club offices or from the chairman of special committees in any of the towns or counties through which the motorcade route will pass.

JOHN ESKINE INJURED IN TRUCK-AUTO CRASH

BRIGHTON, Mich., Nov. 6.—(UP)—John Eskine, educator and novelist, suffered a broken nose and numerous body injuries today when the automobile in which he was riding from Lansing to Detroit collided with a truck three miles from Brighton. Edgar Harlan Clark, of Lansing, driver of the machine, was more seriously injured. Dr. D. A. Cameron, superintendent of Mellus hospital to which Eskine and Clark were taken, said that Clark had fractured his sternum and received a brain concussion.

PRESIDENT HAS CROP OF CHRISTMAS TREES

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt believes he has a paying crop in Christmas trees and plans to plant about eight acres more next spring.

He now has 21 acres in these trees on the family homestead here and he is looking forward to annual production of about six to eight acres.

Asked about this experiment today at his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt observed there was a good market for such trees.

Jaycees Ready To Ride in Atlanta-Savannah 'Cade

The Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce has entered two cars in the big motorcade of November 15, which will officially dedicate the new all-paved highway from Atlanta to Savannah by way of McDonough, Macon and Dublin. Austin Abbott is seen at the wheel of the Cord car he will drive, with George B. Yancey, Jaycee secretary; Slater Marshall, editor of the City Builder, and Dade Kelley, vice president. Staff photo.

English and Italian 'Settlement' Raises French Hopes To End War

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A reported "settlement" of Italo-British differences in the Mediterranean raised French hopes tonight of finding a basis for tri-power discussion of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

In diplomatic circles it was said that Britain and Italy had reached an agreement to withdraw surplus sea and land forces from the Mediterranean area. Slowly and eventually, it was asserted, they will reach the level existing before war flared in Africa.

Liquidation of Britain's extra sea strength in the Mediterranean and Premier Mussolini's unusually large land forces in Libya is expected here to begin after the British elections November 14. No formal announcement, it was said, will be made of the move until then.

A settlement of Anglo-Italian ten-

British officials recently said a French promise to support London in the Mediterranean is "as complete as such arrangements can be."

Experts are constantly conferring on various angles of the agreement.

(No official confirmation was forthcoming either in London or in Rome of the reported Mediterranean agreement.)

A settlement of Anglo-Italian tension, it was pointed out here, would give Premier Pierre Laval a free hand to proceed with discussion of a peace in Africa.

French officials disclosed also that Britain, France, Italy and Spain are exchanging views on a proposal to revise the statute of Tangier. (This agreement provides for the permanent internationalization of Tangier.)

Transient Found Hanged.

BARTOW, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The body of a man identified by officers as Charles Hilbrecht, 74, of the Tampa transient camp, was found hanging by a window cord in a shack seven miles south of Lakeland today.

He was believed to have been dead 48 hours. Officers said he was survived by children in Bay City and Cairo, Michigan.

'VICTORIES' OF G. O. P. DENIED BY WILLIAMS

broke the long spell of republican rule and then by a margin of only four seats.

And yet it is conceded on practically all sides the republicans haven't the slightest hope of recapturing the presidency in 1936 unless they are able to carry New York state with its 47 electoral votes, more than those of a half-dozen western commonwealths combined.

Another phase of the New York elections is equally impressive. Democrats elected their candidates for congress and other vacancies in New York city over fusionist tickets in a manner to show clearly that Tammany Hall is again restored to its past dominant position. This foreshadows the return of democratic control over the nation's chief city and indicates sufficiently the party may count on the usual majority there next year to offset normal republican strongholds in the up-state section.

N. Y. in Democratic Column.

If there is any obvious meaning to be attached to the results it is that New York, so far as the present outlook is concerned, may be safely counted in the democratic column when the 1936 presidential contest rolls around.

The Kentucky returns, which are slow coming in because of the deferred count prescribed by statute in that state, show the democratic candidate for Governor substantially leading his republican opponent, although a severe schism existed in the ranks of the democrats there. Governor Ruby Laffoon, the retiring democratic incumbent, openly supported the republican nominee. Since the election of a democrat was to be expected there will be no occasion for national party headquarters here to give undue emphasis to the indicated victory. But had the republicans nosed out, undoubtedly the outcome would have been hailed by republican leaders with the same vociferous shouts of anti-Roosevelt sentiment as have falsely marked the New York and Philadelphia contests.

While there may have been a few scattered upsets here and there, democratic leaders here say there were no more than to be expected. So far as administration heads go no case for concern is felt. Recent Wall Street betting odds quoting Roosevelt as a 10-to-1 favorite to win in 1936 still reflect the political sentiment of the country, they declare.

PASTOR TO BE HONORED AT TEN CLUB BANQUET

Dr. Henry Alford Porter, of Charlottesville, Va., former pastor of the old Second Baptist church here, will be a guest at a dinner to be given the Ten Club by Judge Marcus W. Beck in the Piedmont Driving Club tonight. The pastor is being entertained by many of his friends during his visit here.

He is at present pastor of the First Baptist church of Charlottesville. While here he is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Glen Dodson at their home on Ponce de Leon avenue. He was entertained at a luncheon yesterday and last night was a guest at a dinner given by Dodson to the Stalwarts.

"TURKEY EXPERT" OUT; COST OF BIRD UNKNOWN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Because of the absence of his "turkey expert" Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today said he could not predict the supply or the price of the American bird for our Thanksgiving day dinners.

In response to a question at his weekly press conference, as to what the housewife would have to pay for her turkey, the secretary replied that he did not see his turkey expert present and therefore would not hazard a guess as to what Mr. Gopher would bring on the 28th of this month.

He did not intimate that turkeys would be cheaper than pork.

tion to 1936 committee assignments. He indicated, however, that no violent shake-ups are to be expected, but at the same time intimated some changes are in prospect.

The bank arrangement for the absorption of the scrip also will save the city several hundred dollars in printing. Heretofore the issues have been in $5 and $10 denominations. Under the new plan, a single paper will be issued for the entire amount due the employee, thus cutting the printing bill.

MULE EATS PLOW LINE, PROBLEM FOR NEWDEAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A hungry mule has provided a new problem for the administration.

This letter from a constituent to an Alabama congressman explains the situation:

"I borrowed a Missouri mule from a relief client to work with my mule to town last Saturday to buy some groceries. The lines being grass plow lines, when I returned to my wagon this Missouri mule had eaten the lines up and I had to go to the hardware store and get new lines to drive home. "As this was a relief client's mule, will the government pay me for the new lines?"

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

A cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. You can relieve them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery that aids nature to soothe and heal the infected membranes and to relieve the irritation and inflammation as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Medical authorities have for many years recognized the wonderful effects of Beechwood Croscote for treating coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations. A chemist worked out a special process of blending Croscote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of Beechwood Croscote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children. Thousands of doctors now use Creomulsion in their own families and practice, and druggists rank Creomulsion top because in this genuine, original product you can get a real dose of Croscote so emulsified that it goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles, especially those that start with a common cold and hang on and on. Get a bottle of Creomulsion right now from your druggist, use it all up as directed and if you fail to get satisfactory relief, he is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

*Mild and yet they Satisfy
—how do you do that?*

Well, to start with, we take tobacco from our own Southland—mild ripe tobacco with lots of natural flavor but no harshness or bitterness.

THEN AS A SECOND STEP—

We blend this home-grown tobacco with spicy, aromatic Turkish tobaccos from across the seas. These Turkish tobaccos, you may know, have a flavor and fragrance entirely different from our own.

AS A THIRD STEP—

These tobaccos are cross-blended—welded together—the best way we've found to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette.

CHANDLER AND REPEAL LEADING IN KENTUCKY

For and 17,361 against on returns from 974 precincts.

Democratic campaign headquarters claimed the trend of the count indicated Chandler's final majority would reach 100,000, or about 25,000 more than Governor Ruby Laffoon's four years ago. Swope's campaign managers declined to concede Chandler had won.

Republicans Exult.

Safely in control of the New York and New Jersey state assemblies and victorious in electing a mayor in Philadelphia and a superior court judge for Pennsylvania, republican leaders claimed victory in those states had repudiated the New Deal.

"The boondogglers are on their way out," exulted Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the republican national committee. "The republican party is on its way back to power."

Chairman James A. Farley, of the democratic national committee, saw it otherwise. He asserted that popular vote totals in New York would give democratic candidates a plurality of some 500,000.

"Accepting that the New Deal was the issue," he added, "New York state voted in favor of it by the large majority of 500,000."

Farley insisted that republican gerrymandering had made it impossible for the democrats to elect a majority.

While returns were incomplete in New Jersey, it was definitely determined that republicans had increased their assembly majority and retained control of the state senate.

In Philadelphia, S. Davis Wilson was elected mayor over John B. Kelly by a plurality of 47,000. It was the heaviest thrust the democratic party had made in the Quaker City, always republican since 1854. Wilson's margin compared with a 338-473 advantage given Republican J. Hampton Moore in 1932.

Pennsylvania's only state-wide contest was for the governorship. E. B. Cummings was re-elected to the superior court bench by more than 167,000 votes over his democratic opponent, Robert L. Myers.

Philadelphia and Pittsburgh voted to legalize Sunday movies. Allentown, Harrisburg, York, Bethlehem, Hazleton, Sunbury and Greenburg voted to confine the movies to week days. Dry forces outlasted beer in 47 counties and had liquor in 53 others. Fifty-three communities belated for continued retail sale of beer and 21 favored both liquor and beer.

The republicans sprang a surprise in Virginia by increasing their representation in the state assembly from six to eight. One contest, still uncertain, held possibilities of giving the party another representative at Richmond.

Kentucky Negro to sit in legislature.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—(P)—For the first time in Kentucky's history a negro will sit in the state legislature.

Incomplete returns tonight showed that Charles W. Anderson Jr., negro republican, was elected a member of the house from Louisville's 35th legislative district whose population is 80 per cent colored.

A lawyer with degrees from three schools, Anderson defeated the Rev. C. Eubank Tucker, negro democrat, who campaigned as a New Dealer, by a vote of approximately three to one. Samuel V. Spevak, white independent republican, polled a small vote. The district is heavily republican.

Anderson said he based his campaign on the "advancement of my own people" and that would be his purpose in the legislature.

OHIO G. O. P. PREDICT VICTORY NEXT YEAR.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 6.—(P)—Ohio republicans today heartened by a decided swing toward the G. O. P. in Ohio's off-year municipal elections, looked forward to the 1936 state election tonight with predictions of victory.

Democratic leaders refrained from comment. Governor Martin L. Davey said he was too busy with "a long round of engagements" to prepare a statement.

Davey visited Cleveland, where the candidate he endorsed, former Mayor Ray T. Miller, fell before a 40,000-vote majority piled up by Harold H.

of the assembly except in landslide years.

Adding to the complexity of the democratic factional fight in the Kentucky campaign, the New Deal issue was very emphatically raised by some democratic spokesmen, who appealed for Chandler votes as ballots endorsing the Roosevelt administration.

Swope avoided any mention of the New Deal in his speeches.

Sales Tax Issue.

The feud between Laffoon and Chandler began when the lieutenant-governor turned against the state sales tax which Laffoon had fathered, and then defeated a Laffoon-backed candidate for the democratic nomination.

Laffoon campaigned actively against Chandler, denouncing him as "a crooning, dancing young man," who had betrayed his administration. The Governor supported other democratic nominees, however.

The New Jersey election saw the republican party return to control of the state assembly, by the election of 82 of that body's 150 members. They ousted nine democratic incumbents in doing so.

In the last assembly, they had 73 seats to the democrats' 77.

A tabulation of total democratic and republican votes cast in the assembly contest disclosed with 21 counties missing, that democratic candidates polled 1,757,280 votes, against 1,349,938 for their adversaries.

A popular democratic plurality of 437,241. Many of the missing districts are normally strongly republican.

New Jersey Vote.

While returns were incomplete in New Jersey, it was definitely determined that republicans had increased their assembly majority and retained control of the state senate.

Democrats found consolation in a popular vote of 137,000 in Hudson county.

In Philadelphia, S. Davis Wilson was elected mayor over John B. Kelly by a plurality of 47,000. It was the heaviest thrust the democratic party had made in the Quaker City, always republican since 1854.

Wilson's margin compared with a 338-473 advantage given Republican J. Hampton Moore in 1932.

Burton, independent republican, former acting city manager and acting mayor. Burton and Miller conquered the republican incumbent, Harry L. Davis, in the non-partisan primary.

Former United States Senator Simon D. Fess and former Governor Myers Y. Cooper joined in interpreting the results of the municipal balloting as assuring a return to power of republicans in the state.

New Deal issues figured but incidentally in the municipal campaigns. In the mayoralty contests, the republicans won 245, the democrats 161 and the non-partisans 162.

The reversal of democrat to republican numbered 45 and the reversal of republican to democrat were 21. In the cities, the republicans won 54 victories and the democrats 28, while the non-partisans took eight. In the villages, the republicans took 191, the democrats 133 and the non-partisans 144.

MINING TOWN VOTES FOR HAPPY CHANDLER.

HAPPY, Ky., Nov. 6.—(P)—This eastern Kentucky mining town, normally republican, did its bit for "Happy" Chandler, democratic nominee for governor. Tabulation today of the vote it cast in yesterday's gubernatorial election showed Chandler carried the town by a margin of 65 over King Swope, republican. The vote was Chandler, 215; Swope, 150.

In the governor's race four years ago, William B. Harrison, republican, carried the precinct over Governor Ruby Laffoon, democrat, by 47 votes. G. O. P. HOLDS OWN.

VIRGINIA VOTE.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 6.—(P)—The Virginia general assembly of 1936 will be composed of 131 democrats, eight republicans and one independent, complete unofficial returns from yesterday's election revealed tonight.

The republican party held its own in the senate by electing two members, and made a net gain of one member in the house. The democrats, in losing the house seat to republicans, lost the Buchanan-Tazewell-Russell senatorial contest, on which attention of the entire state was centered. Dr. J. W. Witten, Tazewell physician and independent.

MRS. L. A. CHRISTIAN, 82, DIES IN FOREST PARK.

Mrs. Lavonia Reeves Christian, a life-long resident of Clayton county, died last night at her home in Forest Park. She was the wife of I. A. Christian, and in her eighty-second year.

Besides her husband, she is survived by four sons, Howard Reeves Christian, Clayton county; John M. Christian, Stockbridge; Stewart Christian, Atlanta, and Carlton Christian, Forest Park; and three daughters, Mrs. C. G. Ellis, Atlanta; Mrs. Lucille Michael, Forest Park and Mrs. H. L. Toland, Riverdale.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with the Revs. Earl Fuller and Charles E. Hitt officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

TALMADGE SAYS VOTES 'LOOK ANTI-NEW DEAL'

Governor Eugene Talmadge said yesterday that results of elections in New York and Pennsylvania "looked anti-New Deal to me."

Commenting on the results, the Governor added that "it looks anti-New Deal, too, in Kentucky when the governor bolts."

Tuesday Mayor William N. McNair, of Pittsburgh, said he "will see" that Talmadge's name is placed on the ballot in Pennsylvania's presidential preferential primary.

In the elections in eastern states yesterday republicans claimed victory over the New Deal. Democrats claimed that republican victories were largely in local and state offices.

POLICE ASKED TO AID IN SEARCH FOR GIRL.

Aid of Atlanta police was enlisted last night by parents of a 14-year-old College Park girl, missing from home since Tuesday morning.

The girl is Leonora Manion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Manion. She was described as weighing 95 pounds, with dark brown hair, large blue eyes, and wearing a brown outfit, including a brown tam o' shanter.

REV. BILLY SUNDAY, 72, EVANGELIST, IS DEAD

however, and Dr. Hal W. Shain, who lives near the Thompson home, was called. Dr. Shain placed an ice bag over his heart, which apparently relieved him, and said he would return.

"Now, don't forget, Doc," Sunday said, apparently still strong.

Mrs. Thompson, her husband and Mrs. Sunday were all with the evangelist about 7:15 p. m. when he said, "Mother, I just feel dizzy."

Then, Mrs. Sunday said, "He just slipped back on his pillow and closed his eyes."

Dr. Shain was recalled.

On October 27 Sunday preached in Mishawaka, Ind., at a Methodist church. Mrs. Sunday said, and expressed himself as "delighted with the success of the meeting." Mrs. Sunday said "30 or 40 people came to the altar."

Calls Younger Son.

Shortly after the death, Mrs. Sunday placed a call to her youngest son, Paul P. Sunday, in Los Angeles, Cal. Paul, with another son, William (Billy) Sunday Jr., told their mother they would leave on a T. P. plane and would arrive here Thursday morning.

The clergyman's first attack, his wife said, was suffered three years ago while he was preaching in Des Moines, Iowa. He suffered another attack last May in Chattanooga, Tenn., and had been in failing health since.

In spite of his poor health he already was in filling engagements already made. Mrs. Sunday said, speaking at Kansas City, among other places.

Sunday began his evangelist work in 1896 and in 1903 was ordained a Presbyterian minister by the Chicago presbytery. He continued revival work, however.

Funeral services had not been completed late tonight.

SUNDAY'S SERVICES HERE ARE RECALLED

The revival services conducted here in 1917 by Billy Sunday were recalled last night by Clarence A. Titus, 222 Melrose street, president of the Laymen's Association of the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church and widely known in church affairs.

Titus, who is district manager of the Welch Grape Juice Company, spoke of the revival services as "one of the greatest awakenings toward Christ ever seen in Atlanta."

"Sunday was fervent and conscientious, and at the height of his evangelistic career when he came here in December, 1917, and January, 1918. I remember it vividly."

"A great tabernacle was constructed, at a cost of many thousands of dollars, on the old West street circus grounds. It was bitter cold, and there was difficulty in heating the building, but it did not keep the crowds away."

Tabernacle Packed.

"The tabernacle was packed each night with thousands of people, who came to hear Billy Sunday, for he was then at the top of his career. The revival meetings were highly successful, and hundreds of persons, through them, came to Christ."

As a lasting memorial to Sunday's influence in this city and surrounding area, Titus pointed out that, at the time the revival services were held, more than 100 leading businessmen of Atlanta formed the Billy Sunday Evangelistic Club.

Marvin Davies, well-known businessman who died several years ago, was its first president, and later the organization, which is still functioning, took the name of the Business Men's Evangelistic Club.

J. A. McCurdy, Atlanta jeweler, is present president of the club.

During the revival services here, Titus had charge of the personal workers at the tabernacle, between 200 and 300 men and women who collected the names of those who hit the famous sawdust trail.

MOSES H. HUTCHINGS PASSES IN HOSPITAL

Moses H. Hutchings, 50, of 754 Argonne avenue, N. E., died yesterday at a private hospital following a short illness. For the past 12 years, Mr. Hutchings had been a deputy clerk in the United States Revenue Department office here. He had been a resident of Atlanta for the past 14 years.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hutchings, of Rockmart, Ga.; a daughter, Miss Lucy Hutchings, and a son, Clyde Hutchings, both of Atlanta; four brothers, J. B. Hutchings, of Atlanta; George Hutchings, of Tampa; and J. C. and Hugh Hutchings, of Rockmart. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Awtry & Lowndes.

Duke of Gloucester and His Bride Honeymooning in Heart of England

Royal Newlyweds Whisked Away From London to Kettering Aboard Jubilee Train, Go to Broughton Hall, Owned by Lady Alice's Ancestors.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(P)—Locking the doors of Westminster Abbey tonight, a member of the staff peered through the dim evening light to see a sheaf of fragrant flowers resting on the tomb of Great Britain's Unknown Soldier.

Approaching, he bent over them to see a card stamped with the royal coat of arms. On it was written: "From the Duchess of Gloucester." It was her bridal bouquet.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(P)—The stalwart Duke of Gloucester, third son of Britain's monarch, and his fair bride, Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott, whose Scottish ancestors once plagued English kings by cattle rustling, were on their honeymoon tonight in the heart of England.

Cheered on their way by thousands in front of St. Pancras railway station, the 35-year old duke and the new fourth lady of the land, 33, sped to the seventeenth century Broughton Hall, an old family place of the bride's ancestors, after they were married in Buckingham palace.

The royal couple had their first moment to themselves when they stepped into the flower-filled royal coach of the chromium-plated "Silver Jubilee" train which took them to Kettering, from where they continued by automobile to Broughton Hall.

Ringed in their ears were the shouts of the crowds, only slightly smaller than those which saw the similar departure almost a year ago of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, then newlyweds.

The populace had been robbed of the most of the pomp and pageantry which had been planned for the wedding, as the death of the bride's father, the Duke of Buccleuch, October 19, had caused a change in the program.

The ceremony in the white-gold chapel at Buckingham palace was colorful in itself, but only 125 persons witnessed it, all relatives or close friends of the families.

The 35-year-old Duke of Gloucester, J. C. and Hugh Hutchings, of Rockmart. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Awtry & Lowndes.

ural resources of Stone Mountain and vicinity.

Mr. Gleason revealed that nature provided a watershed running from Tucker on the north, through Clarkston and east of the honor and county farms on the south and that neither the air or water would ever be contaminated with sewage.

Other speakers included Martine L. Harmsen, of Atlanta; R. L. Sprayberry and S. H. Nuchols, the latter being named chairman of committee to arrange another booster meeting here the latter part of the month.

King George was dressed in a field marshal's uniform and Queen Mary in a jewel-blue chiffon velvet gown.

The Prince of Wales, who passed the wedding ring to his brother, wore the uniform of a colonel of the Welsh Guards, and the Duke of York was garbed in the uniform of colonel of the Scots Guards.

Lady Alice promised "to love, cherish and obey 'til death do us part."

London Enthusiastic.

London took the 33-year-old border maid to its heart, though a little less enthusiastically than it did the more glamorous Princess Marina of Greece, the bride of the Duke of Kent.

The greatest cheer went up when the new duchess, a few minutes after she was united to the duke—thereby leaving the Prince of Wales the lone bachelor in the royal family—appeared on the balcony of Buckingham palace.

The throngs which had waited since the early morning hours burst into excited cries of delight.

When the couple later had reached the railway station, and the police lines relaxed, a huge crowd raced pell-mell up the sloping entrance to the begimred old station, hoping to catch a last glimpse of the royal pair. But the train bearing the big, broad-shouldered duke and his bride had already pulled out for Kettering.

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., Nov. 6. The citizens' meeting held in the Stone Mountain High school building last night made plans to put on an aggressive building and real estate boom in this section.

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. ## Evidence of Return of Prosperity Is Seen in Colquitt County Area

Merchants, Auto Dealers, Real Estate Men and Citizens Generally Report Better Times; Building Permits Double 1934 and Tax Collections Are Up.

By BILL AVERA, The Moultrie Observer.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Moultrie and Colquitt county area has shown a decided economic trend back to normalcy during the past 12 months, a survey here reveals.

City and county officials, merchants, real estate men, automobile dealers and even the laymen on the street today reported better conditions.

The return to prosperity, said officials and laborers, is not confined to any particular line, but is spread among practically all professions and businesses.

Building permits, which lagged for five years, started forward eagerly during the past year, and when the fiscal year closed October 1 the total reached $224,225, more than double the figure recorded for 1934. Five new buildings in the business section greatly enhanced an already-thriving area, and 145 new homes dotted the four principal residential sections.

Addition to this total of $27,000 in improvements at Moultrie High school, and a $15,000 street paving project late this month, 55 per cent of which will be supplied by PWA funds, will bring the aggregate for 1935 soaring to $365,225.

Music and Entertainers Feature Enlargement of Popular Eating Place.

JACK'S TOP ROOM at Broad and Marietta streets today formally opens its new, modern dining room. The management states that owing to the popularity of the tap room it has been impossible to accommodate patrons properly and therefore they decided to double the seating capacity by adding a new dining room. The new room is served by a complete, new kitchen and the management plans quick service for those in a hurry. It has an entrance at 29 Broad street and also from the tap room.

Mary Senon and his orchestra will play daily from 12 to 2 and from 6:30 to 12 p. m. In the evening with the orchestra will appear Florence Bridges and Mary Olcott, well-known Atlanta singers, and Katherine Dittig, tap and ballroom dancer.

Nick D. Chotas, who has been in business in Atlanta for 29 years, and Jack Paul will be in direct charge and cordially invite their friends to attend the opening of the new dining room and enjoy good food and smart entertainment. There will be flowers for the ladies and cigars for the gentlemen. Wine will be served free with meals.

TALMADGE REQUESTS CHEST CONTRIBUTIONS

Calls on Citizens of Atlanta To Give Generously for Needy.

Governor Talmadge yesterday called on the men and women of Atlanta to give generously to the Community Chest and insure the success of the annual campaign to meet human needs.

In a personal letter to Julian V. Boehm, general campaign director, the Governor said success of the drive this year would mean more than ever before because of the increased need.

"As we approach the annual campaign of the Community Chest I wish to congratulate this community upon the generosity of her citizens who give so willingly of their time and energy to make this event a success," the Governor said.

"I wish also to commend the people of Atlanta and its vicinity for all they have done to support this great humanitarian agency by their generous gifts."

"This year I trust that all Atlantans will co-operate to the extent of their ability so that the proposed goal may be reached quickly and easily."

The Governor's letter came as one important phase of the campaign, the solicitation of 75,000 employees of more than 600 of Atlanta's largest business and industrial firms, got under way.

Key workers in this part of the campaign, which is under the direction of Moreton Rolleston, head of the groups division, took the field with a goal of increases in both numbers and amounts of gifts.

These workers met Tuesday night and heard Boehm declare Atlanta was giving this Chest campaign real backing.

"Leaders in every walk of life have pitched in to help raise the money for the needy," he said. "The word has gone out that this must be a successful campaign, and something of the famous old Atlanta spirit has been re-born to say that we cannot fail."

THREE MORE TO FACE TAX EVASION TRIAL

Louisiana Contractors Are Slated To Answer Charges Dec. 2.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—United States District Attorney Rene A. Viosec announced today that Harry B. John P. and Willis W. Nelson, prominent Louisiana contractors indicted for alleged violations of the income tax laws, will be placed on trial in federal district court here December 2.

The Nelson brothers were indicted by a federal grand jury along with others, some of whom were closely associated with the late Huey P. Long. Two of the eight persons indicted, Abraham L. Shushan, president of the Orleans Levee Board and head of a large New Orleans notions firm, and former State Representative Joseph Fisher, Long legislative supporter, already have been tried.

Shushan was acquitted recently of charges that he evaded payment of approximately $71,000 income taxes, while Fisher was convicted of defrauding tax payments amounting to about $4,000, and at present is serving an 18-month sentence in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

The Nelson brothers operate the Mississippi Valley Construction Company, Inc., of Baton Rouge, which held large paving contracts under the highway program undertaken by the late Senator Long while he was governor.

THREE MORE TO FACE TAX EVASION TRIAL

Louisiana Contractors Are Slated To Answer Charges Dec. 2.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—United States District Attorney Rene A. Viosec announced today that Harry B. John P. and Willis W. Nelson, prominent Louisiana contractors indicted for alleged violations of the income tax laws, will be placed on trial in federal district court here December 2.

The Nelson brothers were indicted by a federal grand jury along with others, some of whom were closely associated with the late Huey P. Long. Two of the eight persons indicted, Abraham L. Shushan, president of the Orleans Levee Board and head of a large New Orleans notions firm, and former State Representative Joseph Fisher, Long legislative supporter, already have been tried.

Shushan was acquitted recently of charges that he evaded payment of approximately $71,000 income taxes, while Fisher was convicted of defrauding tax payments amounting to about $4,000, and at present is serving an 18-month sentence in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

The Nelson brothers operate the Mississippi Valley Construction Company, Inc., of Baton Rouge, which held large paving contracts under the highway program undertaken by the late Senator Long while he was governor.

WOMAN INSISTENT ON MURDER STORY

Bertha Williams Reiterates 'Confession' Despite Skepticism of Detectives.

Still maintaining she killed a man near Mobile five years ago, Bertha Williams, 24, arrested yesterday in connection with the alleged larceny of an automobile, was being held last night by city police.

"I know you don't believe me, but I killed him with a baseball bat and buried him in a lot behind the house," the woman repeated to detectives, who doubted her story.

Following the confession of the woman, in which she told of slaying Claude Bentley in a house at Pritchard, near Mobile, in August, 1930, police here communicated with authorities at Mobile.

There police said the woman told substantially the same story last spring to police at Galveston. At that time her story was checked, found to be untrue, and she was not returned from Galveston to the Alabama city.

Further word from Mobile was awaited last night, however.

The woman was arrested in Clinton, Tenn., with Betty Mae Stowe, 22. At first the pair was believed to have been implicated in the $500 holdup last Thursday at the Bank of Austell, but investigation revealed they were not "in" on the robbery.

COMMISSION ON BONDS TO HEAR SCHOOL ROW

Tuesday Meeting To Attempt To Break Deadlock on Architects' Fees.

James H. Ewing, chairman of the bond commission which will supervise administration of the $1,775,000 bond issue voted by Atlantans for school and sewer improvements, yesterday called a special meeting of that body for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning to attempt to reconcile a board of education difference over school funds and to expedite start of the $800,000 school improvement program.

Mayor Key yesterday approved all measures passed to him from Monday's meetings of city council and the aldermanic board. Most of the important council actions dealt with the $800,000 sewer modernization program. Thus the sewer projects were placed well under way.

Ewing asserted he believed his group could be helpful in composing board differences and in breaking the deadlock precipitated because of a move to divert $50,000, which was dedicated to the Maddox and Murphy Junior high schools for improvements, to payment of fees to architects for supervision of the other portion of the program.

There appeared little likelihood yesterday that any agreement will be reached prior to the bond commission session. The board will meet Tuesday afternoon and Ewing is attempting to pave the way for immediate action to speed up work on the schools.

Jean Oliver To Ride 'Cheer Leader' In Madison Square Garden Show

By Sally Forth.

JEAN OLIVER will shed glory upon Atlanta in the national sports world on Saturday when she rides in the Madison Square Garden show. And if Jean wins the blue ribbon in the championship class for good hands, in which she is entered, she will add another star to Atlanta's sport crown. Friends of the youthful rider are anxious over her participation in the Madison Square show as this is a coveted honor to which all riders aspire. Jean qualified for this honor when she won the blue ribbon in the good hands class at the show presented here last spring by the Atlanta Horse Show Association.

The youthful Atlanta will ride her own mount, Cheer Leader, which she rode in the Atlanta show. Though Cheer Leader's ancestry is of the thoroughbred strain it is his young owner's skilled horsemanship that has won so many ribbons in the southern shows. Authorities have commented upon Jean's expert handling of her mount gained through that most difficult of all horsemanship technique—"good hands." With countless other friends, Sally believes that Jean's perfection in "good hands" will win for her the national championship in this class when she circles the big Madison Square ring on Saturday.

In addition to Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Oliver, Sally doubts that anyone more anxiously awaits news of the little brown-eyed rider's success than Mrs. A. S. Wheeler, under whose supervision she has studied equestrianism for the past four years. Jean admits that Mrs. Wheeler has been the guiding influence which has brought her success in the horse show circles and she gives all credit to her teacher. It was a sad disappointment to Jean when she learned that Mrs. Wheeler would be unable to attend the New York show. Modest to the nth degree, Jean claims that it is her teacher's presence that spurs her always to victory. Being a very superstitious young lady, Jean will wear the usual four-leaf clover in her boots and a tiny bracelet, made of silver miniature horses, given her by Ann Pappenhimer, when she enters the big Garden ring on Saturday.

MRS. JOHN K. OTLEY'S small luncheon today at the Capital City Club is a complimentary gesture to Mrs. C. A. Stair, a charming newcomer to society, and Mrs. James K. Hamill, of South Berwick, Maine, the guest of Mrs. Blawie Lee. Ever since her arrival here from New Orleans Mrs. Stair has made a favorable impression by her gracious manner and her decided interest in Atlanta and the people she has met.

Mrs. Hamill, a world-wide traveler, is a woman of great personal charm and wide culture. Her special flair is for art and she spends much of her time in various picturesque quarters of the globe devoting herself to painting. Aside from her home in Maine, Mrs. Hamill owns a winter residence in Florida, and she flits to Europe whenever she becomes obsessed with the urge.

A LOVELY Atlanta sub-deb is scheduled to take the leading role in the prologue of a film which will have its brilliant premiere here at an early date. The gown she will wear for the part is an exact copy of one that Worth designed and created for the Empress Eugenie and is the very same worn by the beautiful movie star, Margaret Sullivan, in making the film.

It seems that the sub-deb has been obsessed with the idea that the lovely gown might prove too

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Loss Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diet, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises. There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace. Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way. Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method, used by doctors. So why not lose fat the easy way—without starvation diets or back-breaking, bending and rolling exercises? Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmola today from druggists.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name will be confidential. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

A young couple just starting out on the great adventure will find that the most important characteristics a man and woman must have in order to insure a happy life together are three: the goose and the gander. To make a woman happy a man should have three things: Integrity (which insures his loyalty); ability to provide for her (this, of course, is a thing of some understanding of feminine nature which will enable him to adjust himself to double harness); To be a highly intelligent man who should have an amiable disposition, the ability to make a game of marriage and to teach her husband how to play; To be a highly intelligent man who should have an amiable disposition, the ability to make a game of marriage and to teach her husband how to play; To be a highly intelligent man who should have an amiable disposition, the ability to make a game of marriage and to teach her husband how to play.

If you ask any man what he considers the most attractive trait in a woman he will answer amiability. By this he means he delights in having her accept anything he suggests and does not spend abouts about his contributions so much to his comfort and happiness as to have a pliable, agreeable companion for life. But there is a big difference between being amiable to this extent and being even tempered, gentle and amenable to reason. If she is too amiable, the husband soon becomes too spoiled for her good or her. She must assert herself occasionally or he takes her for granted and tramples her. An occasional "no" is the part of a wife is necessary medicine to the average husband. It is the dash of bitterness that gives zest to their common life.

The most amiable disposition won't enable a woman to keep an attractive home, be a friend-wife and a wise mother unless she brings intelligence to her job. There must be a certain amount of good food and physical comfort in her four walls, all accomplished without excessive strain on her nervous system. She must be a good housekeeper. When the mechanics of housekeeping are dispatched there is still the husband to be entertained, the children to be trained, and the outside activity for the wife or she goes stale. No stupid woman can juggle these four balls, keep them in the air without letting one fall to the ground. If she is intelligent, house, husband, children, or herself are needlessly sacrificed.

Since the whole structure is built on her relationship to her husband, this is the woman's game. It is not enough for her to be dutiful and competent and agreeable. Marriage can be as easy as chips if the woman doesn't know how to play and know how to teach her husband to play. A marriage where there is no light laughter is like a gaping firetrap with the wood burned to ashes. Husbands and wives who don't know how to make a lark of their life together are like a couple of dumb animals in a cage. They have a place to eat and sleep but that's all.

To be able to respect the man she loves is the first requirement of a woman's nature. If she can't trust him she can't get any peace or happiness out of life. And he can't fool her, either, about his trustworthiness. If he is tricky in business, if his associates watch him to see whether or not he is turning a sharp corner she will have to watch him too. He either has or has not the quality of integrity. It is the great safeguard in any human relationship.

Ideally a husband should be able to support his wife. Custom has decreed it. It has always been done in the best families. But radical changes are taking place in this particular. The young business woman is willing to work and spend fifty-fifty with the husband who is faced with economic conditions that have no precedent in history. However, she still expects him to work and earn as best he can, to provide for her to the limit of his ability.

Last, not not least, he must make the effort to understand her nature which is as different from his as day from night. She is sensitive to everything he does and says. She looks eagerly for the evidences of his affection and his protection. She is sentimental and lays great store in the little things of which he is naturally neglectful. If he will only learn to humor her in these small matters she calls him the model husband.

Men and women can have all these characteristics yet not hit it off together. So much is in their attitude, one to the other. A happy marriage requires what any other successful partnership venture requires: a high site set, which both partners bend their energies to reach, a mutual willingness to share work, responsibility and profit and loss.

NANCY PAGE

This Lamb Is Meek Enough to Have Poetry Written About Him

By FLORENCE LA GANKE.

In the series of animal designs that Nancy had been working on she had chosen rather too like creatures. Now she has come into the home field and shows a woolly lamb such as might disport itself on any country farm in the grassy meadow or upland.

The lamb goes on tray sets which include the tray cloth and the napkin, on pillow tops, on bibs, on the apron, scarf or even on the pocket of a child's dress.

It is the easiest of animals to make. Nothing is required except an outline which is done in chain stitch or in a series of outline stitches.

The direction leaflet which may be obtained by following the directions given at the end of this column will give a lamb in working embroidery size. Also, the dimensions for a bib are given.

Nancy wondered as she looked at the design whether she might not embroider the lamb on the pillow top for instance and then work two or three slits around the neck so that she could run in a nice blue ribbon such as a necktie, and a respectable lamb would like to wear on a Sunday. She wondered, too, whether it might not be possible to applique the lamb in felt. In that case she would show the woolly coat by work the loops that give the wool effect in out-

Lillian Mae Patterns

When North bid two, no-trump, South determined to make every effort to score his spade honors. He expected his partner to bid three no-trump over his three diamonds and decided that, although a game at no-trump probably would be easy, he would risk returning to the suit in which he held 100 honors, hoping that, if his partner could not stand the spades, he could return to five diamonds and furnish enough strength to enable South to make it.

West opened a low club and, cashing his ace and king, East led a third round. Knowing that one of his opponents had four spades, and praying that it would not be the player with the fourth club, South discarded a heart. West won the trick with the club queen and returned a club, hoping East could trump with an honor and set up his ten spot as a winning trick. The best East could do was the trump nine and South overuffed, drew trumps and made the four spades by cashing his five diamonds and the ace of hearts. He scored, for tricks and honors, 220 points. Had his partner played the hand at no-trump, with a heart opening from East, eleven tricks could not be stopped, and five no-trump would have meant 160 points. For a mere 60 points, then, South had risked a game that was worth at least 500 points, and that might easily have been lost if West had held four spades instead of East.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Sometimes it is impossible to finish a rubber, either because one of the players has left or because progressive rubber bridge is being played, and only six deals are allowed before moving to another table. In such cases, what is the correct side has a game?

Answer: If one side has a game, and the other has no game, the side with the game receives a bonus of 300 points. If both sides have games, nothing is scored. No bonus is given for a part score. Of course, all the points which have been scored, on either side, would if the rubber were completed.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

WAR AND BRIDGE.

I often have commented on the relationship between the structure of a deck of cards and the structure of an army. The origin of all card games, clouded though it is in the dimness of past ages, obviously is a reproduction in less strenuous play of the most primitive of sports, physical combat. Although the figures that are depicted on the honor cards of a deck are medieval, nevertheless the marching of modern armies and all the conditions of modern warfare still are mimicked in bridge. The nation which uses poison gas in its warfare is like the player who gasses away throughout the bidding and play in an unfair endeavor to rattle his opponents by his continual chatter. The airplane observer who spies out the lay of the land and drops his deadly bombs is paralleled by the player who sits up as high in his chair as he can and endeavors to "peek" in his opponents' hands.

The moving spirit behind war is greed, and greed, too, plays its part in bridge. Sometimes, as in the case of the war profiteer, greed apparently is a divided mind. But in bridge, as in life, so base an emotion never can be permanently profitable, and the player who is swayed by greed too often comes to grief. Greed is the long run through failure to make the necessary personal sacrifice to a game which, like life, is a partnership affair.

After a sermon such as this no minister would use as an example an instance in which greed actually paid. Both because I am no minister and because it required the greatest skill on South's part to overcome the dilemma in which his greed for scoring honors had placed him, I have no hesitancy in showing today's hand.

In the old-fashioned garden, herbs for flavoring food were grown in abundance. When mature, they were gathered, dried and put away for kitchen use.

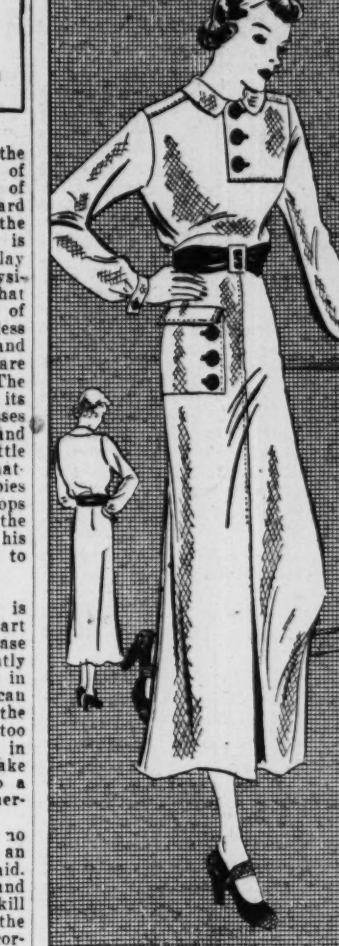

Much the same story about Black-Draught. This popular, vegetable laxative is made of selected, scientifically approved, medicinal herbs—dried, finely ground and packaged for convenient use.

TAILORED FROCK WITH AN ENTRANCING POCKET.

Pattern No. 1715-B.

Anyone can say that the silhouette shall be voluminous, or stripped to the last inch. But it takes a master hand to do the details, the seaming, the clever neckline, a different pocket.

This frock has two quite unique points of interest. One is the one-sided yoke, cut square, and ending at center front, where it is buttoned with three big flat buttons. The other is the pocket, which looks as if the other half of the yoke had been transferred to the opposite side of the skirt. It has the identical buttons, and a flap which looks just like the little round collar that finishes the neckline. The sleeves are fashioned like a shirt sleeve, finished with a narrow cuff, and buttoned. The skirt has a pleat in front, stitched on the outside to carry out the tailored effect.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1715-B is designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 (34) requires 2-3 yards of 54-inch material.

Mrs. Robert Martin Honors Son Friday

Of interest among Atlanta's very youthful social circles is the party to be given tomorrow by Mrs. Robert E. Martin in celebration of his third birthday anniversary.

The affair takes place in one of the private dining rooms of the Biltmore hotel and will assemble 50 guests. Features of the afternoon will be the showing of Mickey Mouse movies in addition to many games and attractions.

The young honor guest is the grandson of Mrs. W. G. King, of Atlanta, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Martin, of the Tate Mountain Estates, who will be special guests at the party, as will his young sister, little Margaret Earnshaw Martin.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Sugar Friddle is the name given to a founding at the Lorian orphanage in Virginia by Sophia Friddle, the superintendent. When Sugar is 17, "Mother" Friddle places her as maid to Mrs. Dick Le Masters' 2-year-old boy, Skeeter. She promises to wait for Johnny De Ville, an orphan just her age, until he becomes a great artist. Her room in the big Le Masters house is in the cellar and her wages are $1 a week. She is found there by Dick's brother, Carter, when he returned from college where he is football captain, and he and Dick move her to the nursery, causing a family squabble. On Sugar's first day off Mrs. Le Masters' 17-year-old sister, Zanie Lon Langworthy, outfits her in silk dress and white pumps. Sugar's dollar goes for lollipops for her orphan friends but her high heels hurt her feet and she accepts a lift from Scoop O'Reilly, New York newspaperman. She rebuffs his attempts at love-making but they become friends when she tells him about herself. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

"What are you thinking?" Cart interrupted and brought her back to earth. "Just musing," Sugar turned with a smile. "Thinking about all the things that have happened to me in one short week. New friends. All the new things I've done."

"Have you decided it's a pretty swell world?" "Oh, yes," she nodded. "Taking it all in, it's been a wonderful week."

Jim Carter leaned toward her, and she caught the perfume from his tweeds. A healthy, masculine odor that she found very pleasant and new.

"It doesn't take much to make you happy, does it?" "I've never thought of it. I guess I've never really been unhappy, except when I started to think. And I usually kept too busy to let the blues get me down."

Cart felt her nearness and his heart began to pound uncomfortably. He moved a little closer.

"You look like a little angel, sitting in the moonlight in that white dress," he told her huskily.

"Thank you, sir," she tried to be nonchalant. "It must be the moon that has blinded you. Or Zanie Lou's dressmaker."

"Oh!" she sobbed breathlessly. "I've never had a girl affect me like you do."

Sugar stiffened when Cart suddenly reached out and drew her into his arms.

"Don't!" She tried to push away, but Cart held her fast and buried his lips in the softness of her mouth. Something new stirred in Sugar's blood, and he kissed her again to the singing in her veins.

"Oh!" she sobbed breathlessly. "I've never had a girl affect me like you do."

"Oh!" she sobbed breathlessly. "I've never had a girl affect me like you do."

Sugar stiffened when Cart suddenly reached out and drew her into his arms.

"I must be crazy!" "I'm sorry," Sugar put her hands to her flushing cheeks. "You shouldn't have done that. It spoils everything."

"No," Cart stood up. "It won't happen again. Forget it. It was beastly of me to frighten you."

"I must go!" Sugar got up and ran into the house before he could stop her.

Back in her room, Sugar threw herself on the bed and buried her burning face in her cool pillow. Two men had made love to her in one evening. Their kisses had been forced upon her against her will. Both of them had said they were sorry.

What was the matter with her? Had it been her own fault that she had been practically insulted twice? Were all men like that? Did they make love to every woman or was she different in some way? Zanie Lou had told her men would all fall for her. If only she could talk to Zanie about it. Zanie was so wise in the ways of the world, but she wouldn't dare. It was too personal.

Perhaps, Sugar thought unhappily, it was because she was an orphan. Maybe girls with background and parents to fight for them were respected. But Scoop hadn't known about her, and he had been perfectly beastly at first.

Strange that she could have forgiven him so easily. And didn't hold it against him at all. It had been so nice being friends with Cart. And now he had spoiled everything. Could there be good friends again?

She remembered his kiss as if it were still on her lips. Johnny's kiss had been so different. Like kissing Skeeter. Scoop's kiss had only succeeded in frightening her. But Cart's kiss—she faced the truth shamefully; it had been her fault really that he had kissed her more than once.

What a little sob stirred her face in her pillow and began to cry. What was happening to her?

It was a long time before she got up and undressed for bed. Then she bent over Skeeter and kissed him tenderly on the little brown hand that lay so peacefully on the coverlet. No matter what happened she wouldn't leave him. Never.

How he had changed in the week she had been with him. The scales proved that he had gained almost a pound and his cheeks were brown and tinged with pink. Only a few times had she had difficulty in getting him to eat. He'd lost all his childish fears of witches and bad men, and relied on her entirely for his every happiness.

Whatever difficulties she might have in becoming adjusted to the new and puzzling world, she would have Skeeter to compensate her. How much his mother missed! Poor, foolish woman! If only she would discover the meaning of baby arms around her neck, baby kisses on her face, life could mean so much more than it did. She looked so unhappy, and sulky.

Scoop was having his thoughts too. When he drove back to the hotel he bought a New York paper and went back to his room. But it remained unread on the bed beside him. In pajamas and slippers, Scoop lay smoking innumerable cigarettes, thinking about his adventures of the day.

Who was Sugar Friddle? His flair for mystery made that an intriguing question. In all his newspaper career Scoop had been so fascinating to him as a mystery. No newspaper man in the metropolis was more famed for going out and digging up the impossible in clues and solutions.

Every one knew him as a tough, rough and ready Irishman who had worked his way up from copy boy to star reporter. He could be hard as nails—soft as putty. Women made fools of themselves over this powerful man and his devilish grin.

But down in Scoop's heart he had always been the belief that some day he would meet a woman like his mother. His mother had been a pretty little red-headed Irish lady before she raised 12 children and grew old and broken from overwork.

It was the grief of Scoop O'Reilly's life that the breaks had not come in time for him to save her from the druggery that caused her to die on an operating table at 45. With his salary as one of the highest paid reporters in New York he was able to keep the four little ones with an aunt and send them to school. The others were either married, or shifting for themselves.

And now the time had come when Scoop felt he had saved enough money to take the summer off and work on his book. It would be a book of life as he had known it. Raw, colorful, earnest; shifting scenes and light romance.

He was on his way to find a spot where he could settle down and write in peace. A colorful spot that would inspire him to do his best work.

Later, an English traveler went to Italy and told of what he saw. "I observed a custom," he said, "in all those Italian cities through which I passed. The Italians use a little fork at their meals when they cut their meat. Most of their forks are made of iron or steel, but some are of silver."

The traveler lived during the reign of King James I. When he got back to England, he made use of forks like those of the Italians. Many persons made fun of him for doing so. "Why," he wanted to make hay of his food, and pitch it into his mouth with a fork?" asked some.

There were others, however, who were willing to try forks when eating a meal. The custom at last became widespread in England, France and other parts of western Europe. Often a gentleman who was invited to dine at another house took along a knife, fork and spoon, all done up in a leather case.

Our table manners and cooking customs have gone through many other changes since those times. For example, we no longer think it good form to call a waitress by pointing on the table with the base of a knife. That was done long ago, and was supposed to be "the right thing."

About the same time the large coal-burning kitchen range began to grow popular, another sort of stove was invented. It had wicks, and was fed with kerosene which ran to the wicks from a tank.

Scoop sat up in bed and lit another cigarette. Why not Lorian? Sugar needed him. She'd be practically alone, poor kid, with no one to advise her or keep her from the ropes. The rates at the Baker hotel were reasonable, and it was comfortable. It was in the Blue Ridge mountains and couldn't be topped for scenery.

Scoop grinned and ground out his cigarette. That was it! That's what he would do. Stay in Lorian and play nursemaid to the little orphan. It might be just possible that he'd get to work he might find out something about her.

For several minutes his mind played with that idea, after he had turned out the light. Who was Sugar Friddle? The question buzzed around in his mind a long time after he fell asleep.

Sugar awakened with a start early in the morning. She raised up in alarm when she found Eurasia beside her bed. The black woman handed her an envelope.

"This head come for you minute ago," the cook grinned at her affectionately. "De milk man bring hit. I spect hit right 'portant. He says hit come from de orphanage."

Sugar tore it open with hands that shook. It was from Johnny. Eurasia went out and Sugar stretched happily. "Dearest," Johnny began in his hurried scrawl, "we're worried about you. Why didn't you come up to see us today? I looked for you all afternoon, and Mother Friddle expected you for supper. Can you telephone Mother today, or send a note right away?"

"Something nice is about to happen. If it does I'll soon have a job, and enough money so we can be married and go away from here. I'll get the money somehow. You wait and see. It's like a graveyard around here without you."

"Remember, I love you, and don't forget your promise."

"Always yours," "JOHNNY."

For several days Sugar lived in half hope and half fear that Cart would pay a visit to the nursery, or that she would meet him in the yard. But he seemed to be studiously avoiding her.

Finally she decided to ask Eurasia about him. The old dork told her Marjorie Jim Carter had flown to New York with Nancy Sue Jennings and a lot of friends.

Scoop phoned every day and Zanie Lou arranged for Sugar to take her calls in her room. Mrs. Le Masters was out so much they hadn't been caught, so far. There had been a terrific breakfast table argument over Zanie's wardrobe being loaned out to enhance the beauty of a servant. But again Jane Lee had been overruled by the family, and she didn't quite have the courage to take drastic steps. It was better, she had always found, to play a waiting game.

Her son, there was no doubt, had never looked so well nor seemed so happy in his life. If she let the girl go, she would pay a visit to the nursery, or some one else. Besides, the lady was not quite calloused enough not to be glad her boy had someone with him he loved. "Westminster" matters were too far, she felt it best to let them ride, and ignore the little red-head entirely.

The DEBUNKER By John Harvey Farley, Ph.D.

THERE IS NO SUCH PLACE AS "WESTMINSTER ABBEY" IN LONDON

That historic old church in Westminster, which is called Westminster Abbey, is not, and never has been, an "abbey." The legal title since Queen Elizabeth, in 1560, has been and still is "The Collegiate Church of St. Peter in Westminster."

"Abbey" is a term applied either to a monastery with its monks and nuns, or to the church of a monastery. The original "Westminster" church disappeared in the reign of Henry VIII. Many people who speak of this church in Westminster add still another error by inserting an "i" and calling it "Westminster."

After the time Columbus first sailed across the Atlantic, a visitor at the royal court in Hungary told of watching the king eat a meal. The visitor reported that the king was skillful in eating, and could keep up table talk without forgetting his manners and "smearing the clothes."

At that time people in Italy had started to make use of table forks. The custom did not spread to other lands very quickly. Much later, an English traveler went to Italy and told of what he saw. "I observed a custom," he said, "in all those Italian cities through which I passed. The Italians use a little fork at their meals when they cut their meat. Most of their forks are made of iron or steel, but some are of silver."

Tackle, Center Standouts Give Auburn Edge in Tech Game

Haygood Jr., Seventh Paterson To Play at Auburn, Is Greatest

By Kenneth Gregory.

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Almost from the beginning of football at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, the name of Paterson has been tradition.

Starting in 1899, when the Montgomery, Ala., family gave its first player to Auburn's lineup, four brothers and three of their sons have worn the Orange and Blue.

The Patersons are a famous old Alabama family, who operate a florist business known as Rosemont Gardens in Montgomery.

Haygood Paterson Jr., alternate captain of the Plainsmen this season, is the latest gridders to carry the family name on to the gridiron. Two others were captains and another served as alternate captain.

The line of Patersons began with Will, an Auburn guard in 1899 and 1900. He officiated in many games until about five years ago, and now is connected with the gardens. His brother Jim followed in 1902-1903, playing fullback and fullback those years and was shifted to end in 1905. He captained the eleven his second season. Jim died some time ago.

Then came Haygood Sr., a guard in 1903 and end in 1904-1905, who paired with Jim at Auburn's flanks his senior year. Haygood Sr. is now sheriff of Montgomery county, but takes time off his law enforcement duties to watch his son play regularly.

Wallace Paterson, who died in recent years, was an Auburn end in 1907 and 1908. William Wallace "Pop" Paterson, son of Will, was the varsity center in 1925, 1926 and 1927. He was captain of the freshman eleven in 1924, and led the varsity his last year. He is a member of the Southern Football Officials' Association and one of the south's best young officials.

In 1933, Duke Paterson, a son of Jim and cousin of Haygood Jr., was Auburn's quarterback. He was the freshman field general the season before. He now is connected with the florist business.

Haygood Jr., one of the south's outstanding tackles and a ranking choice for All-Southeastern honors, was out of action in 1933 because of injuries received in an automobile wreck. He returned to make a good record in 1934 and this year was elected alternate captain.

The last Paterson to make gridiron history at Auburn, but considered by the family as the greatest player of

RESERVE BACKS ALSO TO MAKE BIG DIFFERENCE

Other Jacket and Tiger Players Considered Standoffs in 39th Game

By Jack Troy.

With John Raine doing the passing and Roger Hackett and a speedy boy named McClure operating efficiently on the receiving end, the Gray Devils yesterday gave a fair demonstration of what the Georgia Tech varsity may expect against Auburn Saturday at Grant field.

The Gray Devils completed quite a few passes when it was discovered after so long a time that ground plays were being run to no avail.

Handling the ball well, the Gray Devils would fling a long forward and windup with a deceptive lateral, and on two such plays Hackett and McClure quit placements and made a cross the variety goal line.

There is quite a bit of talk here and there about Tech's chances in the 39th game of the Auburn series, and so it might not be amiss to make a somewhat searching analysis of the two teams and determine what difference, if any, exists.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE. There is a difference. And the edge belongs to Auburn. The difference lies in one tackle and one center, in the line; and in superior reserves in the backfield. As to the other positions, lineman to lineman and starting back to starting back, they are relative standoffs. Which is to say that there is little difference between their respective ability.

One cannot escape the fact, however, that in Haygood Paterson, alternate captain and tackle, and Walter Gilbert, center, Auburn has two players that Tech can hardly match.

Not only are the two players standouts for the All-Southeastern but both are seriously being considered as All-America material. And just so. They have played the kind of football this season that merits consideration.

TECH BACKS GOOD. The general belief is that Tech's starting backfield, including Fletcher Sims, quarter; Scrapy Edwards and Dutch Konemann, fullback; and Harry Appleby, fullback, will match Auburn's starting quartet.

But beyond that, Tech cannot produce backfield reserves that will compete with replacements Auburn has. And so there is a difference. Just what this difference will mean on Saturday, however, no one can say.

It may be that Auburn's better rush line than Tech. Observers claim that the Tiger forward wall compares favorably with the big rush line of North Carolina.

And this is something to consider. The Auburn line easily will be one of the two best the Jackets have faced this season. The North Carolina line may be the best. But there is a wide difference of opinion. For, in all games to date, the Auburn line has yet to be outplayed.

COLORFUL GAME. At any rate, Saturday's renewal of the series which began away back in 1892, and which finds Auburn with a 20-15 edge in victories, should be one of the most colorful of all the games played.

The Jackets are in good physical condition for the game. None of the regulars is injured. And the boys are eager for fray, so to speak.

There was one casualty yesterday and it really goes under the heading of news. Backfield coach Bobby Dodd suffered a painful shoulder injury.

Dodd was defending against passes in a dummy scrimmage and he decided to intercept one. At the instant Dodd went into the air for it, however, J. P. Morgan, sophomore end, charged up and hit Dodd either with an elbow or a shoulder and put the backfield coach temporarily out of commission.

MISJUDGED SPEED. Dodd said, "but I misjudged his speed. I didn't know he was that close. All I have to say is that Morgan is a bull in strength. He almost wrecked me."

All of which drew only the six comment of Line Coach Mack Tharpe that "old Dodd is softening up. He always has reminded me of the Chattanooga because he runs off at the mouth. So I guess there's nothing to do, but start calling him Old Man River."

Coach W. A. Alexander took Dodd in hand and personally applied shoulder bandage that would enable the former All-America player to sleep in comfort.

There may be another short scrimmage today, with the Jackets' stressing defense against passes and the off-tackle slants and wide-end runs of O'Rourke, Hitchcock, Mitchell, Fenton, et al.

Miami-Biltmore Open Moved Up to Dec. 15

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Dates for the $10,000 Miami Biltmore open golf tournament were advanced from December 15-18 to December 14-17 today.

The new dates were set, it was said, so participants would have a day of rest before the opening of the $5,000 British colonial tournament at Nassau. The latter opens December 20 and runs through December 22.

G. M. A. TO MEET MONROE AGGIES ON GRID TONIGHT

Winner at Ponce de Leon May Have Chance in G. I. A. A. Race.

By Roy White.

G. M. A. and Monroe Aggies will battle at 8 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park for second place and a possible chance at the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association championship. It will be one of the feature games of the week and will definitely settle second place in the state prep race. And there is a chance for the winner to be in a playoff for state honors.

Both teams are in excellent condition for the game and there is a choice between the two. Both teams won from Benedictine College at Savannah by approximately the same margin, and both hold victories over Tech High.

BEAT SMITHIES, 13-6. G. M. A. defeated the Smithies, 13 to 6, while Monroe gave Tech High one of its worst beatings in several years. The Monroe team was primed for Tech High and it was the one game on the schedule which Red Barron's team wanted to win.

Tonight's game will be the final appearance in the regular schedule of both Monroe and G. M. A. in this section. The College Park Cadets have a chance to get back into the running for city championship honors with a victory tonight.

It will be a grudge game, and Red Barron's team is more than anxious to get revenge for former G. M. A. defeats. And Monroe, until the Tech High victory some time ago, had not won a game from an Atlanta team since 1932.

ALL SQUARE. Monroe is all square with Atlanta teams this year, losing 19 to 6, to Boys' High and winning 39 to 0, over Tech High. A victory tonight will give the Aggies a one-up advantage in the annual wars with Atlanta's High Three.

Monroe will lineup with Krouse and Martin, ends; Wall and Dillard, tackles; Brown and McEachen, guards; Bates, center, and Mock, Beers, Jaeger and Harden in the backfield.

Coach Bud Harris was undecided on his G. M. A. lineup for tonight, but most likely will start the game with Rainer and Burdick, ends; Argudine and Hardy, tackles; Black and Black, guards; Freer, center, and Bosch, Hughes, Suttles and Thompson in the backfield.

Tech Faces Etowah, Purples Meet Poets. With G. M. A. and Monroe battling away in the week's feature, Tech High, Commercial, Marist, Fulton, Boys' High and Decatur will have to make up for Friday's games.

A special train will take the Boys' High team and supporters to Macon for the game.

Tech High plays Etowah, Tenn., at 8 o'clock Friday night at Ponce de Leon park in one of the best games for Atlanta's prep fans.

Decatur plays LaGrange Friday night in a homecoming game at Decatur. All the former Decatur High players will be guests of honor Friday night.

Commercial plays Spalding County High Friday night in Griffin in its second game of the week. The Red Raiders defeated North Fulton, 51 to 0, Wednesday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park and now takes on Spalding Friday night. Two games within three days is no easy assignment for any prep football team.

Marist plays Gainesville Friday afternoon in Gainesville and Russell plays Fulton Friday afternoon at East Point in other prep games of the week.

VANDY PROTESTS JACKET CONDUCT NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(AP) Madison Sarraf, dean of men of Vanderbilt University, said today that he has protested to the dean of men at Georgia Tech in Atlanta the "unprofessional conduct" of Tech freshmen following the football game between the two schools there Saturday.

After the game which Vanderbilt won, 14 to 13, the Vanderbilt band, the dean said, started a parade through Atlanta streets.

"Some students undertook to harass and annoy the band," Dean Sarraf declared. "They grabbed the hats off the boys and did other things to disturb them and two of the players were beaten up."

Bud Sorgatz, editor of The Hustler, Vanderbilt student newspaper, said this week's issue of the publication, out next Friday, will carry an editorial which will "hit the student body down there" at Tech.

Sorgatz said that several of the band members were beaten in the melee and that one of them was "going around on crutches" as a result of his injuries. Dean Sarraf reported that Dave Hinkle, playing in the band, suffered a broken bone in his foot when he tried to retrieve his hat from the attackers.

Tech Officials Express Regret. Tech officials yesterday said a letter had been forwarded to Vanderbilt officials regretting the incident and apologizing for the conduct of a few students following the Tech-Vanderbilt game here last Saturday.

Baltimore Pitcher Now Honeymooning NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Bill Lohrman, pitching star of the Baltimore Orioles, was married October 15 to Miss Alma Pedersen, of New Paltz, N. Y., at the Little Church Around the Corner here, it was learned today. They are honeymooning in Miami, Fla.

The burly International league pitcher spent much of his time outside the baseball season on his farm at New Paltz, near one owned by the bride's parents, his parents in Brooklyn revealed. They said the wedding climaxed a romance of 15 years.

One More Georgia Boy, Auburn Would Have 11

Three Atlanta Boys Among Ten Gridders From This State on Fighting Tiger Squad.

By Jack Troy.

It seems that Georgia boys make good wherever they go or at whatever they undertake. Three will start the Auburn lineup against Tech Saturday. Two of them will be Atlanta boys who prepped at Tech High school.

Three will start and three others are sure to play. Then, too, four others are likely to see action.

All which means that Auburn will bring to Atlanta only one player shy of an all-Georgia eleven. Of the ten, three are Atlanta boys—Sidney Scarborough, regular quarterback; Joel Eaves, varsity right end, and Bill Ellis, reserve halfback. Ellis also prepped at Tech.

Frank Gantt, left guard, who played prep ball at G. M. C. and whose home is at Lavonia, is the other Georgia regular on the Tiger eleven. The other Georgia boys are Fred Black, center, Macon; Wesley Loflin, Athens, and Ralph Sivel, Chipley, guards; Travis Vernon, Tifton, end or guard; Norman Whitten, LaGrange, quarterback, and Harry Whitten, LaGrange, halfback.

BLOCKED PUNT. It was Gantt who blocked Ace Parker's punt and enabled Auburn to beat Duke. The play was a classic. Bob Gantt and Hamp Williams, end, broke through. Gantt blocked the kick and Williams speared the ball on the run with one hand and went on to score as Gantt blocked out Parker. Incidentally, Gantt blocked 16 kicks at Madison A. and M. in 1931.

Joel Eaves, the all-around athlete and one of the cleverest boys on the squad, caught the pass that scored Auburn's touchdown against Tulane. He won three letters at Auburn last year.

Scarborough is, of course, a brother-in-law of Pug Boyd, former Tech athlete, and his generalship has played a leading part in Auburn's advance this season.

AUBURN WON FIRST. Auburn capped the first game of the Tech series in 1892 by a score of 25 to 0. The Plainsmen then went on to win 18 of the first 19 games. And they have won three of the last four. The complete record

Tiger Right End

Joel Eaves, Auburn right end, above, is one of the two Atlanta boys playing regularly with the Auburn team. The other is Sid Scarborough, quarterback. Eaves, one of the greatest of Auburn athletes, is a three-letter man. He won his "A" in football, basketball and baseball last year.

Typists Rout N. Fulton, 51-0

Using the reserves a major part of the game, Commercial High defeated North Fulton, 51 to 0, Wednesday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park in the opening of the week's prep schedule. It was the first of two games Commercial will play this week in order to comply with the rules of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference for championship recognition.

The second team started the game and led 6 to 0 at the first quarter, after outplaying North Fulton all the way. The varsity took up the burden in the second quarter and scored four touchdowns in rapid succession when Martin Loyd ran 40, 35 and 35 yards for three straight touchdowns.

Commercial led 32 to 0 at the half and North Fulton had been held without a single first down.

The Commercial reserves took up the burden in the third quarter and scored again, following a long drive down the field. Two more scores were added in the fourth period by the reserves.

The work of Reynolds, Spradlin and Mayfield in the backfield, and Roach, Carlton and McWilliams, in the line, was outstanding for Commercial's reserves, with Red and Martin Loyd playing best for the varsity during the second quarter.

H. and D. Nichols, both in the backfield played best for the losers.

THE SUMMARY. N. FULTON (6) P. CO. CO. Carlton Estes ..... 2 ..... McWilliams Williams ..... 2 ..... Shepard Crowley ..... 2 ..... Durden McKinney ..... 2 ..... Roach Mumma ..... 2 ..... Neal ..... 2 ..... Rishnar ..... 2 ..... Mayfield Dikins ..... 2 ..... Spradlin D. Nichols ..... 0 ..... 0 ..... 0 ..... 0 ..... 0 ..... 0 ..... Touchdowns, M. MUSTANG COACH GUNNING FOR BID DALLAS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Genial Madison (Matty) Bell, head man of Southern Methodist's renowned aerial circus, let it slip today. His "horses" will be gunning for Rose Bowl recognition in the stretch drive of the rocky schedule.

"Sure we'll be trying for a Rose Bowl bid," snapped Bell, a remnant of the famous "Praying Colonels" of Centre College and now in his first year as head coach at Southern Methodist.

But Bell, who has brought perhaps the greatest of all Mustang teams through seven games without a dent, cast a gloomy look at the five remaining games on his schedule and predicted things for his air tricksters.

"It looks like Notre Dame just filed a claim on the Rose Bowl by beating Ohio State," commented Bell, "but we'll be trying."

Rose Bowl or no Rose Bowl, Bell said he had the finest ball carrier of them all in bounding Bobby Wilson, 150-pound halfback sensation of the Southwest Conference. His 54 points lead the section's touchdown parade.

"Bobby Wilson comes nearer to putting everything in every play than any backfield man in the country. He is in perfect condition and is ready to go against the University of California at Los Angeles, next Monday."

"We are going to pass and pass plenty the remainder of the season. We resorted to very little aerial work in the 20-0 defeat we gave Texas Saturday because U. C. L. A. scouts were in the stands, but we plan to cut loose at Los Angeles."

OWLS GET REST. Despite their defeat by Michigan State Saturday, Pop Warner was ready to give his Temple Owls a rest yesterday. But the boys would have none of it. They even asked to scrimmage against the freshmen, despite the fact no game is scheduled this week.

'Slip' Madigan Sees Bears, Irish in Bowl

St. Mary's Coach Believes California-Notre Dame Game Would Please Fans Most.

By Eddie Brietz.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—It is "Slip" Madigan's guess that Notre Dame and California will line up against each other in the next Rose Bowl football classic, January 1.

Madigan, head coach at St. Mary's in California, reached New York today with the latest gridiron gossip from the far west. His Gaels meet Fordham here Saturday.

"I feel sure California will be the western team and if it is, it will invite Notre Dame. California has been trying to play Notre Dame for a long time," he said.

Right now the Golden Bears are the only undefeated major eleven on the coast. Madigan doesn't believe it will go through without a reverse, but he says it has the best chance of any of the bigger teams to finish with only one defeat.

WOULD PACK BOWL

"That's the game the people out west want to see," he went on. "It would pack the bowl. Of course, if Notre Dame declines a bid, California would have to find an opponent in the south or southwest since I understand Princeton is bound by an agreement with Yale not to play post-season games."

"Slip" thinks Jimmy Phelan's Washington team, although defeated by Stanford, is the coast's strongest eleven.

Madigan nominated Wagner Jorgensen, St. Mary's center, as his All-America candidate.

"There is a famine of outstanding linemen on the coast this season, but there are plenty of good backs. I'd like to see a better center than Jorgensen, though."

COAST'S CANDIDATES

"Washington has two All-America candidates in Haines and Logg, both backs. Stanford's best is Bobby Grayson. U. C. L. A. has a winner in Cheshire, halfback, and another in Key, a fullback.

About his own team, Madigan thinks the Gaels will come around once they get a major victory under their belt.

"We've got plenty of good football players, but we're having a little trouble finding the right spots for some of them. We've been fiddling around with various combinations. We'll get one to click soon. Then give us a big win and we'll be all right."

The Gaels, accompanied by 120 supporters, arrived on a 12-car special train after a roundabout trip via New Orleans, Miami, Jacksonville, and points east. They pitched camp in Westchester county and will drill daily until Friday.

J. P. C. SQUAD BEGINS WORK

With Coach Shep Lauter already on the scene the Jewish Progressive Club has started practice for the coming basketball season. The outlook for a good team this year is very bright at this writing as the squad boasts some very fine talent.

Coach Lauter has coached the Chattanooga Y. M. H. A. and also the Meat Packers, of the same city, before joining the J. P. C.

The following men return as a nucleus: Poney Minsk, Izzy Friedland, Steve Brody, Harry Spielberger, Elliot Rubin, and Happy Ginsburg. Among the newcomers to the squad are Kitty Katz and Dave Center, formerly of Georgia Tech; Gabby Greenberg, former Virginia high school player; Emmanuel Kulbersh and Perry Rubin.

The squad for the first time in history boasts men over six feet tall and this is very pleasing to the new coach.

Southside Eleven Beats Hurricanes

The Southside Bulldogs defeated the Pryor Street Hurricanes, 12 to 0, Wednesday afternoon on the Southside field. It was the ninth straight victory of the year for the Southside football team.

Fair scored both touchdowns for the winners and together with Carlton and Webb were outstanding for the winners.

Joiner and Thomas played best for the losers.

U. C. L. A. PLAYER ELIGIBLE, SAYS BROTHER EARL

Ted Key Situation Still Has Investigators in the Dark.

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The investigation into the eligibility of R. F. (Honest I'm Ted) Key, University of California at Los Angeles' bruising fullback, bogged down tonight into a methodical study of the far-flung Key family.

Dean E. R. Miller, of the U. C. L. A. faculty, searched high and low here for persons who could tell him whether the fullback is R. F. (Ted) Key, as he registered at the coast school, or Clois (Shorty) Key, a brother who played for three seasons with the Texas School of Mines at El Paso.

"It looks like we have lost a good fullback if we can't locate some of the missing witnesses," Dean Miller said.

He conferred with R. F. (Ted) Key, of Amarillo, a salesman, and Earl (Ox) Key, former Southern Methodist grid idol, but declined to reveal his findings. Earl insisted the U. C. L. A. fullback is his brother and eligible to play at any college. As for the mysterious Clois (Shorty) Key, he said:

"The last time I heard of him he was playing professional baseball in Mexico."

Earl said "the R. F. Key living in Amarillo is my cousin, and is the son of R. I. Key, who was at Vernon, Texas, the last time I knew. J. D. Key is my father and the father of the Ted at U. C. L. A."

Dean Miller's investigation of credit ratings showed R. F. Key, of Amarillo, to be the son of J. D. Key and his brother to be E. L. Key, of Dallas. Miller planned to motor to Panhandle, Texas, to browse through files of the community's high school. It was from this school the U. C. L. A. fullback said he was graduated and presented credentials for his college registration.

At Vernon, Texas, where R. F. (Ted) Key (the Amarillo Key), went to high school with Brothers Clois, Earl, Ox and Roy, the superintendent of schools, W. T. Lofland, said he had no record of credits for Ted Key ever being forwarded from his school.

To further thicken the plot, Marshall May, assistant football coach at Vernon where the Keys were high school grid heroes, said he had compared a U. C. L. A. picture with that of his old high school leather lugger and that "it looks just like Shorty."

At Los Angeles, the object of the commotion the man now known just as the U. C. L. A. fullback, could not be found.

CHAMP GOES EAST.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Vincent Lopez, recognized as heavy-weight wrestling champion by the California state athletic commission, will make his eastern debut in Madison Square Garden November 18. Promoter Jack Curley announced today. His opponent will be named later.

Atlanta Boy Is Promising Georgia Tackle

Tom Haygood, 20-year-old Atlanta boy who weighs 220 and has an admirable reach, is a real tackle in the making at the University of Georgia, observers declare. Only a sophomore, Haygood has distinguished himself this season. He played a great game at left tackle against Florida. It is likely that Haygood will start against Tulane Saturday. Harry Harman, another Atlanta boy, is injured. So Haygood may replace him.

Georgia Cage Squad Report for Drills

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 6.—Official drill for the Georgia Bulldogs' 1935-36 basketball card opened here today with 22 aspirants reporting. None of the members of last year's squad were lost by graduation.

Georgia-Tulane Clash Anybody's Ball Game

Coaches Mehre and Cox Worried Plenty; Wave's Stock Soars After Win Over Colgate.

By Ralph McGill.

You may put this down as being as sure as two and two making a total of four—

The Messrs. Harry Mehre and Ted Cox are two very worried hombres this week. Very, very worried.

Mr. Mehre, in his capacity of head coach at Georgia, has digested the reports of his scouts and at work on details calculated to stop Tulane and open the way for his own eleven.

And Mr. Cox is devoting all his 260 pounds and his six feet and eight inches of brawn to the problem of what to do about the Georgia Bulldogs.

The situation is a puzzle. A real one.

Until last week, Tulane was very much the second choice in the Georgia game. Tulane had defeated by Auburn and had taken a rather severe trimming at Minnesota.

Tulane did not possess the backfield talent which made the team dangerous last year. And Georgia should have won its 1934 game with the Green eleven.

Georgia had a team which some of its supporters hailed as the greatest team in Georgia history. It gave indications of being that as it swept through its first four games.

Then came Alabama, and Georgia lost the game, largely through penalties, which came at the opportune moment to retard the Bulldogs in their matches.

WIN ON BREAK.

The Athens eleven then met Florida and won a 7-to-0 victory through a break on a quick-kick which they capitalized on to score.

Tulane, after a doddering start, came back last week to win from Colgate, outplaying the Red Raiders all the way.

In other words, all the dope on the game has been tossed higher than a kite.

Tulane now looms as a team on the way. Georgia is gathering up the loose ends to start over after the Alabama defeat and the Florida scare.

Neither coach has the slightest idea what to expect from his team on Saturday when the two meet in the stadium at New Orleans.

They would give you the Croix de Guerre with palms for a little inside tip on which team will be right on Saturday.

At any rate, Tulane no longer is the underdog. The Green eleven will go into the game on even terms. If one adheres strictly to the dope, Tulane may be a slight second choice. But the dope is a dime a dozen this year. And that's too much of a price.

Tulane always is difficult to beat on their home lot. This year will be no exception.

I think Georgia has somewhat the best of it on offense.

But no one knows for sure. Among the tough ones to figure, you must include the Georgia-Tulane game in New Orleans Saturday.

McDuffie and Wolf

Meet at East Point

The popular wrestlers with Atlanta fans, Joe Wolf, of Chicago, and Rennie McDuffie, of East Point, will headline the regular weekly card at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the East Point city auditorium. They will meet in a one-hour, best two out of three falls match.

In the semi-final, another one hour two-fall match, Tiger Runson wrestles Wesley Brownlee, the Avondale terror.

Riddle Wagner and Leon Fuller will open the program in a 30-minute one fall match.

Additional ringside seats have been provided to take care of the big crowd and the auditorium will be well heated.

BULLDOGS STOP TULANE PLAYS IN LONG DRILL

Harman and Causey Return to Fold; To Play Saturday.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 6.—Georgia's varsity team ripped the freshman defense to shreds this afternoon, piling up touchdown after touchdown as the running and passing attack clicked with precision.

Aided by the expert blocking of Charlie Treadaway, the touchdown romps were made by Alf Anderson, John Bond, Al Minor, Hugh O'Farrell and Henry Waggoner. Alf Anderson, Bond and Maurice Green struck fast and fiercely through the air. They were performing with commendable accuracy, completing most of the passes thrown. Five of them were good for touchdowns.

The Red Devils were unable to cut any ice against the varsity while on offense. The veterans were stopping the Tulane plays in great fashion. Finally, the first-stringers were marched back to their goal line, however. Here the ball went over and the varsity took their turn at cracking away at the line.

INJURED RETURN.

Harry Harman, tackle, and Paul Causey, left halfback, were back in uniform today and both will be able to play in the Tulane game Saturday in New Orleans. Harman, bounced back to normal with a tough task before him. He must reassert his claim to the right tackle post which Tommy Haygood, Atlanta, is holding down so capably. Causey returns after having been out since the Furman game. His presence should boost the passing and punting capabilities considerably.

Fullback Bill Hartman will not be used Saturday on offense at all, and only on defense in case of emergency. Ward Holland is doing a fine job of filling his position. The frail Collins, Ga., boy played well the few minutes he was in Saturday's game with Florida. He was about in drills this week has been pleasing. He was in fine fettle today, and should prove a valuable substitute for Green Saturday.

However, Johnny Jones may also be called over from the right halfback post for the fullbacking assignment.

DRIZZLING RAIN.

Braving threatening rain, the squad held the early part of the session in a drizzling rain. Coach Mehre lost no time in running his boys into the scrimmage. A short workout on pass and pass defense was held by the backs.

A skeleton reserve team was against the Red Devils on defense for the purpose of further familiarizing themselves with the Tulane plays.

The squad will depart for New Orleans Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and arrive in the morning in a train. Charles Martin, business manager of the Georgia Athletic Association. The train will pull into New Orleans Saturday morning about 10 o'clock. Almost as large an Athens delegation accompanied the team last year to the Crescent City is expected to go this year.

Northwestern in Fine Spot to Upset Notre Dame Saturday

LUKATS AND PILNEY.

Moving back to the human side of football, away from spinners and reverses and the technical side, the cases of Nick Lukats and Andy Pilney of Notre Dame are the most unusual in football history.

I recall, some years ago, when Knute Rockne told me that Lukats would be another George Gipp.

"He is one of the best young backs I ever saw—a back who can do everything brilliantly," Rock said.

Then Rock passed from the picture—and Lukats was just another football player.

Now and then he would show flashes—but only in spots. He came to his final stand and closing chance against the Army—an unbeaten Army team. For two or more periods you never knew that Lukats was on the field.

Then something happened. In the space of a few seconds the Lukats that might have been another Gipp suddenly became another Gipp.

He ran over the Army and around the Army. He passed and slashed and completely wrecked the Army defense. Within the space of 15 minutes he looked to be as good a back as anyone could hope to see.

What had happened from that early promise to the last 20 minutes of his final game?

In the same way there is Andy Pilney. Pilney came to Notre Dame heralded as a potential star—one of the best young backs of many seasons.

Up to the Navy game, Pilney was just another Notre Dame back—and rarely a starting back. He was inclined to fumble, for one thing. He couldn't get along with any consistency.

In the Navy game, Elmer Layden's first-string backfield cast bettered down. Navy had the upper hand and for the first 15 minutes the better-looking team, with Shakespeare, Fromhart, Wojchowski and Elser on the job for Notre Dame.

In the second period, Pilney steps in with Gaul, Layden and Carideo. And before the Navy knew it, the torpedo was on its way—Andy Pilney had sunk the ship. His running and passing were replete with flame and speed. Navy couldn't hold him back.

The same thing happened at Columbia. It was Pilney, the wild horse, who ran and passed Notre Dame into the most astonishing victory I ever saw upon a field.

Beyond Explaining.

Both were equipped with everything a star back needs—speed, power, shrewdness, versatility and unquestioned courage.

They were both potential All-American entries from the first day they came upon South Bend turf.

Yet both, for some unknown reason, failed to arrive on the main scene and reach for the spotlight until they were close to the end of the three-year road.

Just what had happened along this three-year path is beyond anyone's guess. Certainly Elmer Layden is not the type to discourage any football player. Yet in several games I recall Pilney was just another back whenever he was tried.

It was not until after the Pittsburgh game this fall that he suddenly found himself.

"I've seen a lot of great backs," Dick Hanley told me after the Columbus game, "but no one that ever showed me more than Pilney did against Ohio State. He was not only a great ball-carrier and a star passer, but he ran and fought with as fine a spirit as you will ever see. He gave an amazing exhibition of the qualities required to make an outstanding star."

The cases of Lukats and Pilney are among the details that add to football's mystery.

There are stars who never get a chance—who remain under cover—potential stars at least.

Others are injured. Others have the physical stuff, but not the love of the game needed to make an outstanding place.

But for some reason or other Nick Lukats and Andy Pilney, between them, lost four years of All-American stardom and the heraldry of the headlines. Both, before they were through, proved what they had—something that had been hidden away until the spark finally broke into a flame.

Answering Complaints.

From a snore of somewhat indignant letters, there are three complaints that can be boiled into a few words—viz. "Haven't you discovered yet that Princeton, Dartmouth and North Carolina are on the map? They happen to be three of the strongest teams in the country, if you can find time to look them up."

One trouble with football is that there are too many teams on the map to be covered in a few weeks.

Princeton, starting slowly, has begun to work up expected speed. The Tiger team today is one of the best between two of our best-known oceans.

Dartmouth was something of a mystery until the Harvard game—and Harvard so far has been no rugged test. Now Dartmouth is headed for the main eastern battle of 1935 when the Green of Hanover moves into Nassau.

North Carolina was tipped and touted as one of the best southern teams before the season opened. After the Tennessee game there was little to do but wait for the harder test against North Carolina State. Any team that can run up more than 60 points against Tennessee and N. C. State has something more than a normal attack.

If Dartmouth can beat Princeton, and North Carolina trumps Duke, and Notre Dame is bowled over, there'll be a neat Rose Bowl argument extending from Hanover to Chapel Hill.

CRIPPLED IRISH LIKELY TO FIND WILDCAT TOUGH

California Bears Menaced by Huskies; Marquette in Danger.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Notre Dame, the people's choice for pigskin preeminence as well as the Rose Bowl and the laurel wreath, may need a fresh supply of punts, prayers and passes this Saturday.

No doubt Head Coach Elmer Layden has advised his young men to discard the clippings they have been collecting this week and concentrate on the job of beating Northwestern.

The loss of Andy Pilney, Notre Dame's All-American candidate for backfield honors, may return to the football wars by the time the Irish play Army, but this will not be so important if Northwestern is not disposed of in the meantime.

It requires imagination, rather than statistics, to suggest Northwestern has a chance to upset Notre Dame this Saturday at South Bend. The Irish should win anyway you figure but the Wildcats are in a fine spot to spring one of the year's biggest reversals.

Northwestern, under Lynn Waldorf's coaching, has been getting better each Saturday. The team threw a scare into Minnesota and licked Illinois in its last two starts. It has nothing to lose and can shoot the works against Notre Dame's best teams invariably have found the Wildcats tough to beat.

HUSKIES STRONG.

The rush to nominate Notre Dame and California for the Rose Bowl may prove to be premature elsewhere. California's unbeaten Bears also are on the spot in their game against Washington Huskies. Washington was picked early this fall to top the Pacific coast list, only to be knocked off by Stanford, 6 to 0. The Huskies are not only eager, but well equipped to retaliate, at California's expense.

They have a great running back in Byron Haines, considered among the three or four best on the west coast, and a line likely to give the Bears forward a real battle.

Marquette's winning streak may be snapped by Michigan State and Iowa can worry Minnesota, providing the elusive Ozzie Simmons is shaken loose a few times, but the team's unbeaten teams look to be safe for at least another week.

Syracuse expects trouble with Lou Little's Columbia Lions but Princeton's juggernaut should flatten Harvard. Dartmouth will entertain William and Mary with touchdowns. Texas Christian, one of the south's powerhouses, will display its stuff in New Orleans this Friday night against Loyola. Southern Methodist, another unbeaten and untied headliner, has its first sectional test on Monday against U. C. L. A.

CONFERENCE LEADERSHIPS are at stake in three other headline pairings this Saturday. Colorado, Utah and Utah battle for the Rocky Mountain title, with the Utes in the favored spot. Mississippi State, which has beaten Alabama and Auburn, hopes to keep up its great record as a "road team" at the expense of Louisiana State. At the moment, S. U. is tied with the Utes for leadership in the Southeastern conference. Kansas moves into Nebraska's stronghold to battle for possession of the Big Six pinacle.

Meanwhile, this corner's belief that Princeton should draw the top ranking game among the nation's teams until events prove otherwise, seems to have aroused considerable debate. There's nothing strange in unexpected results, but plenty of room for argument to continue and it need not be confined, by any means, to the Tigers and the Irish.

CLASS OF EAST.

No one who has seen Princeton doubts it has the material and the power to match any team in the country. Now that it has become oiled and polished, there's nothing in the east to compare with it, particularly in backfield talent. Only a handful of colleges in the midwest, south and southwest can offer any real rebuttal in manpower.

Minnesota, North Carolina, the southwest and the Pacific coast will have plenty to offer before any attempt at a final ranking is made. The south is comparing this year's North Carolina powerhouse to Alabama's Rose Bowl champions. The Tarheels cannot be overlooked in any discussion of this winter's post-season prospects, for New Orleans' Sugar Bowl battle as well as Pasadena's festival on New Year's Day.

U. S. Olympic Athlete Sails for Germany

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—First American Olympic athlete to sail for Germany, Richard H. (Dick) Durand, of Dartmouth, was a passenger aboard the Manhattan today. A member of the Olympic ski team, Durand was given ticket number 2101, the first issued by the transportation committee of the American Olympic committee.

Durand, a native of Tarpon Springs, Fla., is going abroad now in order to practice on the new German Olympic ski course at Garmisch-Partenkirchen. Other members of the ski team will sail in January.

Worry L. S. U.

Ike Pickle

Chuck Gelatka

The lads above are two reasons why L. S. U. is doing considerable worrying about that big South-eastern battle with Mississippi State at Baton Rouge Saturday.

Ike Pickle, halfback, has been heroic in the sensational victories of Major Sasse's forces over Alabama and Army. Chuck Gelatka is a fine end, in fact the greatest Sasse ever coached, he says.

Emory Juniors Win Over Seniors, 7-0

A 63-yard drive late in the second quarter Wednesday netted the Emory Juniors a 7-0 victory over the first place seniors and also a tie for the first place in the Intramural League.

The loss was the seniors' first after winning three straight games.

The Juniors marched to the 10-yard line from their own 27 and then a pass from Hays McMath to Bill Stephens placed the ball on the 12-yard line. A line play and then a pass from Stephens to McMath netted a touchdown. McMath passed to Verner for the extra point.

The seniors threatened to score only once, taking the opening kickoff and driving to the 12-yard line, where the winners turned back the drive.

McMath, Klausman, Stephens, Alexander and Coxwell stood out for the Juniors, while Siedel, Gentry, Conyers and Heidecker were best for the Seniors.

Injured Card Rookie Is Somewhat Better

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—(AP) The condition of Lyle Judy, recruit infielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was seriously injured yesterday in an automobile accident, was described tonight by hospital attendants as "some better."

Judy, who playing last season with the Springfield (Mo.) club, stole 107 bases, has been in a critical condition at a local hospital since the accident.

Reports tonight still termed his condition "critical" but said he had "rested" during the day.

THOROUGHBREDS FROM MID-WEST SET EARLY PACE

Horses From Dodge and Dick Stables Star First Day.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Striking early in the battle of blue ribbons, thoroughbreds of the tanbark from the middle west today dominated the opening of the 52d National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden.

Horses from the stables of Frances Dodge, of Rochester, Mich., and A. B. Dick Jr., of Gurnee, Ill., set the pace for many of the leading equine blue ribbons of the country.

Miss Dodge, a relative of Mrs. Dodge Sloan, owner of the famous Brookmeade racing stable, sent out her highly-bred harness ponies to carry off two blue ribbons, a second and two-thirds. Dick, master of the Dick's field farm and with his wife handling the reins, matched the youthful Michigan sportsman in number of victories, but fell behind in the lesser awards.

It did not take long for Miss Dodge to register. She took the opening event of the seven-day show when Brashfield Debonair, a 10-year-old chestnut mare, beat Paul Moore's Sagon Matchbox, of Morrisstown, N. J., in the class calling out novice single harness horses, over 14.2 hands. An hour later, Brashfield Debonair again entered the ring and hitched with Potentilla had no trouble turning a victory over three other teams of harness ponies, over 14.2 hands, which had not won more than six first places at any recognized show.

Both of the Dickfield farm's victories were scored at the expense of ponies from Miss Dodge's stable. Highland Cora took down the award as the ranking novice single harness pony not exceeding 14.2 hands as Miss Dodge's Better Time landed third place back of Cassilis Vera from Mrs. J. Macy Willets Cassilis farm, of New Marlboro, Mass.

CAROLINA STATE HAS STAR BACK

Coaches Brooks, Crawford and Dawson, who direct the athletic activities of South Carolina State College, which meet Clark University here Saturday afternoon to feature a football game, will rely upon his newest three-threat find, McCants, a Ohio lad, who proved a thorn in the side to a strong Florida aggregation last week when the Carolinians defeated them, 7-0.

McCants has made a great showing in practice this week and Clark University will have to stop this elusive backfield luminary to win. Although there are several ball-carriers for the State school to call upon, it is of general opinion that the newcomer will bear the major part of the offensive burden and that he will be the key man in their attack.

Motorcade Planned For Colored Tilt.

Around a hundred or more cars will start out for Columbus, Ga., early Monday morning for the little seaboard town where the football eleven of Morris Brown College and Alabama State, two leading football machines, will play at Memorial stadium in their annual Armistice Day classic. Those desiring to enter the motorcade are advised to call W. A. Hamilton, Walnut 1933, and enter your car.

TURN PRO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Red Oliver, Texas Christian backfield star, reported to the New York Giants professional football team today. Oliver participated in a workout today and will play in the team's game Sunday against the Paterson Panthers.

Bowlers Work For Tourney At Durham

Ten of Atlanta's best bowlers will have their final practice workout at Blich's Bowling Center this afternoon and evening preparatory to departing for Durham, N. C., where they will bowl in the southern doubles sweepstakes for the doubles championship of the south, Saturday, November 9.

With five doubles teams making a trip to Durham, Atlanta is making a strong bid for recognition in the first National Duckpin Bowling Congress sectional tournament to be staged in the Carolinas.

The large Atlanta entry will have Dewey P. Bowen, paired with L. Kenner, Carl Tidwell and L. M. Tappan. As partners, Walter E. Lawford and A. J. Sossong hitting the pins for collective totals. It would be impossible to pick the pair of these bowlers that will make the best showing at the Carolina bowling event, a question of "breaks" being a big factor in the final scores.

All of these bowlers have averages better than 115 in league games and most of them do their best bowling in sweepstakes and tournament competition.

For example, A. J. Sossong, in two separate practice workouts with his partner, Walter E. Lawford, bowled 20 games for a total pinfall of 2,547. Five-game sets of 612 and 681 in the first workout and sets of 612 and 642 in the final practice built up the big average. If Lawford can contribute his share, he is undoubtedly will be on his game, this pair should be among the leaders.

However, it is possible that any of the other four pair may be outstanding in the big contest.

Bowlers from Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia will participate in the Durham meet.

Beefsteak Sets New Track Record

NARRAGANSETT PARK, R. I., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Beefsteak, a five-year-old gelding castoff by the Bradley stables and acquired only yesterday by Mrs. L. H. Nimkoff, sped to a new track record today for a mile and 70 yards of 1:41, just two-fifths of a second under the world's record.

Giving weight to every horse in the field of nine in the sixth race, Beefsteak, with 117 pounds on top, made it a two-horse race from the start, with the Brookmeade stables' Black Gift, the only competition.

STOEFFEN SIGNED FOR WINTER TOUR

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Bill O'Brien, professional tennis promoter, announced today that big Lester Stoeffen, of Los Angeles, had signed up to make another tour next winter under O'Brien's sponsorship.

Stoeffen started the 1935 tour last January with Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines and George Lott but was forced to retire late in February owing to a severe attack of influenza. Tilden and Vines already have come to terms with O'Brien for the 1936 cross-country show.

BOSTON BRAVES MAY BE BOUGHT BY A SYNDICATE

New Hampshire Sportsman Heads Group Seeking Control.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Charles Francis Adams, principal owner of the Boston Braves, conferred today with Major Francis P. Murphy, New Hampshire sportsman and head of a syndicate reported bidding for control of the local National league club.

Also participating in the conference were associates of Murphy and representatives of the First National Bank of Boston, which holds a large note against the Braves franchise. The conferences are to continue tonight and tomorrow.

Adams said today that if the Braves franchise were sold he would insist that the National league be the salesman. Lacking a buyer, he said he would probably turn the club over to the league unless stockholders provided sufficient new working capital to build up the team. Adams said that if he retains the club he hopes to secure Bob Quinn, general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, as general manager of the Braves. Under that arrangement Bill McKenzie would continue as playing manager.

Murphy, prospective new Braves owner, is president of a New Hampshire shoe company and prominent in New Hampshire politics. He is one of the present minority stockholders of the Braves.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Corporate bonds went along easily with other financial markets into higher price levels today.

Advances were not as spectacular as in stocks, but every division of the domestic list participated in the upturn. United States governments were mostly a shade higher, and foreign bonds kept in step with the aid of a better demand for the latter.

Transfers of $1,383,000, per value, were the largest in nearly two weeks and compared with $9,424,000 on Monday. Sales of United States government securities accounted for only $840,000 of the total.

The 10 industrial bonds issued in the Associated Press average attained a new high of 100.2 or longer at 100.2, up .3 of a point on balance, and the 10 utility issues in the compilation made a new 1935 peak at 99.5, up .2 of a point.

Although results of yesterday's election and varying interpretations in different quarters, the referendum conducted in numerous cities and towns on the question of issuing new bonds for various public purposes of extreme interest to the investment community. Places where municipal power plants were involved received extra attention.

Particular firm spots in various sections of the list included American Rolling Mill 4-14s, up 1/2 to 102 1/2; Intercontinental 5-12s, up 1/2 to 101 1/2; Houston Oil 5-12s, up 1/2 to 101 1/2; Paramount 6s, up 1/2 to 102 1/2; Southern Pacific 4-12s, up 1/2 to 102 1/2; and United States 4-12s, up 1/2 to 102 1/2.

United States government bonds were neglected today and closing prices were a trifle lower, 2-32nds lower to 5-32nds higher. The great majority of active issues were in the rising phase.

Advances of a point or more were recorded by Italian Government 7s and Rome 6-12s. Other foreign loans were generally steady.

THE TARZAN TWINS No. 58

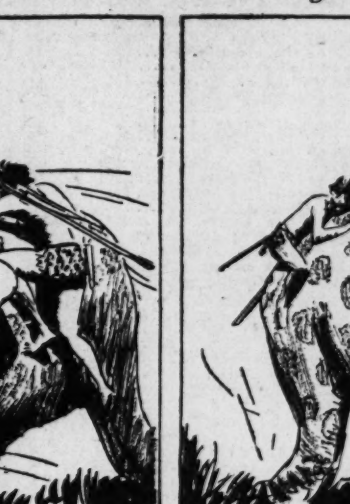

When the powerful trunk of the frenzied elephant lashed out to seize him, Tarzan with lightning agility leaped suddenly to one side, and Gudah charged past. But that was only a temporary respite, for the elephant whirled and returned to the chase.

The ape-man foresaw a continuous repetition of this evasion and pursuit until at last his lameness exposed him to seizure. Now the handicapped ape-man decided upon another, but equally hopeless, maneuver. He turned and stood still in the face of the jungle juggernaut!

Once more Gudah was upon him. Once more Tarzan jumped lightly aside. But now, as the elephant rushed past, Tarzan summoned all the power of his springy muscles and leaped to the elephant's back! Gudah shrieked his annoyance and swung his trunk to sweep off his molester.

But Tarzan slid back to the elephant's hind quarters, out of the orbit of that whirling trunk. He hoped to retain his position there for a while to rest his wounded foot; but now the infuriated elephant reared high in the air, and Tarzan knew he must soon fall to the ground.

But Tarzan slid back to the elephant's hind quarters, out of the orbit of that whirling trunk. He hoped to retain his position there for a while to rest his wounded foot; but now the infuriated elephant reared high in the air, and Tarzan knew he must soon fall to the ground.
